THE LATE S. P. CHASE.

Last Rites Over His Remains at the Capitol—Imposing Services in the Senate Chamber.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The funeral services over the remains of Chief Justice Chase were concluded to-day, between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock, in the chamber of the Senate of the United States, and in the presence of 1,500 mourners and spectators, among whom were the highest and most honored of the land. No burial casket has before rested on this floor since the day, eight years ago, when the remains of the honored and venerable Solomon Foote, Senator from Vermont, were carried through the portal of this hall to their final resting-place. The arrangements were carried out smoothly and with precision under the direction of Sergeant at Arms French and ex-Marshal Parsons, especially so when it is remembered that some of them were not determined upon until midnight of yesterday. The attendance was not only large, but very distinguished, and comprised nearly every prominent official personage in the city, while not a few came here from other cities to pay their last tribute of respect to the dead Chief Justice. The galleries were forced open by the pressure of the crowd at 10½, and were filled to repletion an hour before the services began. The mixture of the sombre habiliments of some, with the bright Spring colors of other wearers, presented many vivid contrasts, and the galleries bore a strong resemblance to the May-day audiences of the impeachment of 1868, when the man now silent in the casket before this throng sat in the chair just above, administering, with the utmost integrity and impartiality, the greatest judicial trust conferred by the Constitution of our country. Those entitled by the arrangements to seats upon the floor came in slowly, one by one, or in twos and threes, with here and there a delegation in behalf of some organized or unorganized body. Of the Senators there were first Messrs. Cameron, Casserly, and Kelley, then Messrs. Justin S. Morrill and Sargent, with Mr. Gorham, the Secretary; and of the members of the House, Messrs. Garfield, Randall, O'Neill, Clarkson N. Potter, and others; Chief Justice Drake and Judges Loring and Nott of the Court of Claims; of the ex-Senators, Mr. Harlan and Reverdy Johnson; of the army, in uniform, Gen. Meigs and Gen Howard; in plain clothes, Gen. Vincent and others. Mrs. Fish and Mrs. Creswell came early and sat among the mourners. The clergy of the district came in a body and took seats to the right and rear. They were followed by the members of the two Houses of the District Legislature, and they by the body of citizens appointed by the Governor. The dignity of the old time of the national capital's corporate existence was represented in the persons of ex-Mayors Walter Lennox, Richard Wallach, and Matthew G. Emery. The members of the foreign legations came to the number of twenty, headed by Sir Edward Thornton, and counting in their ranks the Austrian Minister, Baron Loederer; the Turkish Minister, Blacque Bey; the German Minister, Herr Von Schlozer; the Russian Minister, Baron Offenberg; the Peruvian Minister, Señor Freyre; the Chilian Minister, Señor Gonzales, and the ever-attentive Japanese Minister, Mr. Mori, with attachés of various rank. The heads of Treasury bureaus, led by the venerable Gen. Spinner and Mr. Hartley, took seats on the left and rear. Hon. J. Hubley Ashton and Hon. Thomas A. Jenckes, special counsel of the United States, came forward and took seats to the left of the centre. Then the arrivals came so fast that there was a ceaseless rustle on the floor until 12:05, when the procession with the body, from the Supreme Court-room, appeared at the main door. A passage way was opened, the buzz of the galleries ceased, and the firm clear voice of Dr. Tiffany was heard reading in measured tones the burial service of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The coffin, borne by the old servants of the Supreme Court, followed, accompanied by the fourteen pall-bearers, as named in these dispatches last night, except that Hon. W. D. Gallagher, of Kentucky, was named in place of Prof. Henry. The family came next, Senator and Mrs. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Hoyt, the family friends and the family servants. All took seats to the right of the catafalque, the family at the head, the friends next, and the pall-bearers in front. These seated, the President of the United States and his Cabinet appeared at the door, and were escorted to seats on the front and left. The Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Navy, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of the Interior, the Postmaster General, and the Attorney General were all present. Mrs. Grant came in on the arm of Senator Conkling, Mrs. Williams accompanied her husband, and Gen. and Mrs. Babcock took seats in the same circle.

The floral decorations which ornamented the coffin in New-York had been brought hither, and additions were made by sympathising friends, so that as it stood in the centre of the area before the officiating minister, it and the catafalque were literally covered with these sweet offerings of esteem and affection. As soon as the President and his Cabinet were seated, Rev. Dr. Tiffany said that the solemn funeral services would be resumed, and that in the absence of Bishop Ames, on account of illness, Rev. Dr. Cleveland would read a passage of the Scriptures, and a prayer would be offered up by Rev. B. Peyton Brown. Rev. Horace A. Cleveland, Pastor of the Foundry Church, of this city, then read the first eighteen verses of the 103d Psalm. Rev. Mr. Brown followed in an impressive prayer, in the course of which he thanked God for the illustrious example of the deceased, invoked the blessing of heaven upon the nation stricken with sorrow, and closed by beseeching consolation for the bereaved family of the Chief Justice.

EULOGY BY DR. TIFFANY.

Rev. Dr. Tiffany pronounced a eulogy, in which he said a prince and great man had fallen which had brought those present and the whole country to a common sorrow. Noticing some of the salient points of the character of the deceased, he said the late Chief Justice was competent for the mastery of details, being remarkably tenacious of their conclusions, as were most men who arrive at results from logic rather than from intuition. He was genial in spirit, and of refined habits of life, and therefore his judicial decisions appealed both to the understanding and the heart. He was the leader of a sentiment of freedom before it was popular and put into party platforms. Selected by President Lincoln as Secretary of the Treasury, it became his duty to furnish the sinews of war. An empty treasury meant no supplies, no transportation, no bounties, no soldiers, no success. He did not come to the post without special training, and by his exertions and skill an empty treasury was filled, the armies clothed, and the vast expenses paid during the protracted civil war. The importance of the work in this department could not be over-estimated. The Secretary of War was enabled to have all the troops and appliances he wanted, but without success in finance, there could have been only disaster and defeat. After the war was over, although the Constitution was strained in consequence of the peril of the nation's life, he afterward sat on and passed judgment on some of his own official acts. As Secretary of the Treasury, dispensing thousands of millions of dollars, no one ever accused him of wrong; and he dies a poorer man than he was when he assumed his place. After the death of Taney it was but just and proper that the late Chief Justice should be his successor. The minister then read an extract from a letter written by Mr. Chase on the subject of the Presidency, in which he said he did not desire the Presidency or a nomination; nor did he know, with his views and convictions whether he was a suitable candidate; and yet, the minister remarked, an impression prevailed that Mr. Chase was a disappointed politician. It was undeniable that no man saw in his acts indications of querulousness and bitterness, but their opposite. He was kind to all, a pure patriot, an upright Judge, and a Christian gentleman. It would be found that his blameless private life was rendered more conspicuous by his eminent official position. No acts of his life need concealment. His character was without a blemish. Scandalous attacks have been made on public men, and, perhaps, many of them were innocent; but none have attempted to tarnish the mirror of the deceased, and his name goes down to posterity without reproach. Courteous in bearing, he superadded a Christian consecration; he was great among men, but as a child before his Father in heaven. Lincoln, the martyred President, was followed by Stanton, the iron Secretary of War, and Seward, the polished Secretary of State, followed not long ago. And now another leaves us, his death hastened by his arduous labors as Secretary of the Treasury. Remembering his life and his sudden decease, may not we say: "My Father, the chariots of Israel and the horsemen thereof," and devoutly pray that his falling mantle may rest on one chosen of God.

The minister then concluded with a prayer, when it was announced that the further services would be performed at the cemetery.

Under the direction of the Marshal, the procession was reformed and moved to Oak Hill Cemetery. There were about eighty carriages in the procession, mostly private, the President and Cabinet and foreign Ministers occupying their own. Thousands of persons were on the streets as spectators. The day was clear.

SERVICES AT THE CEMETERY.

In the chapel of the cemetery, Rev. Mr. Brown began the services by reading from the burial service the office commencing, "Man that is born of woman hath but a short time to live, and is full of misery." The ministers present repeated in unison, "I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me write, from henceforth blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, even so saith the spirit, for they rest from their labors." Rev. Mr. Brown then read from the collect, beginning, "O merciful God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the resurrection and the life." The ministers repeated in unison the Lord's Prayer, after which Rev. Dr. Tiffany pronounced the benediction, which concluded the services.

After the last sad rites in the chapel, the casket was lowered into one of the temporary vaults beneath the floor, where it will remain till to-morrow. It will then be taken out, and having in the meantime been inclosed in the case, will be interred in the lot of Gov. Cook, in the new part of the cemetery. The burial will be strictly private, in accordance with the request of the family, only the immediate family being present.

The Bar of the Court of Claims held a meeting to-day, Chief Justice Drake in the chair, and passed resolutions of respect to the late Chief Justice.

THE POLARIS EXPEDITION.

Arrival of the Rescued at St. Johns, N. F.—Statement of One of Them.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 12.—Intense excitement prevails here owing to the landing of the Tyson party this afternoon. Tyson and Meyers remained on board until they were supplied with clothing by the American Consul. All look well, and are in good health and spirits.

Capt. Hall died fifteen days after returning from the first expedition. He was paralyzed three days before his death, and gradually sunk, dying at 3:25 A. M. Meyers says he never gave up hope of being rescued, but never wants to get into so tight a corner again. The party never could have reached here but for the Esquimaux.

STATEMENT OF A SURVIVOR.

Meyers makes the following statement:

Capt. Hall returned from a sledge expedition on Oct. 24, and was taken ill on the same night. The next morning he found the left side of his body paralyzed. He remained in that condition for three days, when he got better. In a few days he relapsed and became delirious, and so continued until the morning of Nov. 8, when he died.

When the party separated from the ship it was quite dark, and the darkness continued for over two months, with but a couple of hours' light daily. We managed well so long as we had a snow-house to shelter us, but we had to take to the boat and get on another ice-field, which was too small for a house, and we were only kept warm by swallowing seal fat and blood and burning fat in pans, the last of which also served as a signal light at night. We have suffered most since April 1. On the night of the 22d of April the sea washed over the "pan" of ice with great force. The women and children were under the boat, while the men were outside trying to keep the boat from being washed away. Some of the men were washed off several times. After being rescued their feet and hands swelled, and sickness set in, but they recovered, and are now almost entirely well.

TYSON'S STORY TO COME.

Tyson says that his statement already published contained the facts. He can give nothing more but his notes of the adventure since leaving the Polaris, and which he will not publish now. He thinks that the party with the Polaris may get home, even should the vessel be destroyed. All on board the Polaris were well. The statements published some months since respecting relics of the Franklin Expedition being sent home are untrue. There has been no means of communicating since the return of the Congress in 1871.

CINCINNATI, May 12.—A movement to raise money for the family of Capt. Hall has been commenced here, with Miles Greenwood as treasurer of the fund.

The Rescued Arctic Explorers.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The Secretary of the Navy has telegraphed to the United States Consul at St. John's to inform the department as to the best means of bringing the survivors of the Polaris to this city. If no other conveyance is presented, the Government will dispatch a steamer to Bay Roberts for that purpose.

THE KANSAS MURDERS.

Narrative of the Horrible Crimes of the Bender Family—Discovery of the Bodies of Their Victims.

From Our Own Correspondent.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Friday, May 9, 1873.

The accidental discovery of a vacated house in the vicinity of Cherryvale, Kansas, has led to a search, which has finally resulted in the disclosure of a series of the most horrible crimes on record, it being clearly evidenced that a wholesale system of robbery and murder has been going on within a short distance of that town for some time—a system of bloodshed and plunder almost unequaled except in the extravagant stories of sensational novels.

It is well known in this vicinity that during the past year a number of persons have disappeared in a very remarkable manner, and all traces of many of them have been lost, in the vicinity of Cherryvale. The cause of their disappearance could not be definitely ascertained, and the inquiries of friends were always fruitless. In many cases the search for the missing ones has been most thorough, especially in the case of Dr. York, a well-known citizen; and this is supposed now to be the cause of the flight of those suspected of the murders. It was the sudden vacation of property which led to the search that has resulted in this terrible discovery.

For some time past a family, consisting of two men and two women, of the name of Bender, occupied a one-story frame house, or rather cabin, 16 feet by 20, on the south side of the Osage Mission road, about two miles or less from the town of Cherryvale, in Labette County, a short distance from the south line of the State, and on the direct line of the Leavenworth, Lawrence and Galveston Railroad. The house is on the open prairie, and not at all concealed by timber. The Benders kept this house as a kind of wayside tavern, and closer to the road is a building that was used as a stable. The main building was divid into two rooms, the front and larger room being used for the purpose of serving the meals, and the rear room as a sleeping apartment, in which there were two beds and some few articles of additional furniture. Attached to the house in the rear is a garden, and the land on which the property is located is about two acres in extent. The Benders were not visited by the neighbors to any great extent, as they did not bear a good reputation, especially one of the women, supposed to be Johanna Bender, but better known by the name of Katie Bender, who is described as a red-faced, unprepossessing young woman. She professed to have a power to cure all diseases, although her general reputation was that she had more of the devil in her composition than any saving qualities. It was generally believed that she terrorized over all the other portion of the family, and few ever cared to be associated with her. The following circular shows that she pretended to cure what has heretofore been considered as incurable diseases:

PROF. MISS KATE BENDER CAN HEAL ALL sorts of diseases; can cure Blindness, Fits, Deafness and all such diseases, also Deaf and Dumbness. Residence, fourteen miles east of Independence, on the road from Independence to Osage Mission, one and a half miles south-east of Morehead Station.

June 18, 1872. KATIE BENDER.

The other woman is described as being about forty-two years old, with iron-gray hair, ragged at the ends, and thin over the temples, hard and sinister-looking, steel-gray eyes, tall, angular form, and repulsive features. She also pretended to be a spiritualist, and engaged extensively in the distillation of charms from the boiling of roots and herbs. The people for miles around dreaded her. The two men were brothers, and bore the names of William and Thomas Bender. Katie was reputed to be the wife of Thomas, while the other woman was supposed to bear the same relationship to William, the elder brother. Both brothers are said to be bad characters, and the neighbors kept them at a distance.

The first disappearance that attracted public attention here was that of an old man and his granddaughter, who left Cherryvale, about three months ago, in a two-horse wagon, to go to Fort Scott, but who never reached that place. All inquiries failed to elicit a clue to the cause of their disappearance, until, about the beginning of March, Dr. William H. York, brother of Senator York of this State, recognized the team and wagon at Fort Scott. Dr. York ascertained that the wagon, &c., had been purchased at the fort from some person who came from Cherryvale, and he resolved to ferret out the mystery. For this purpose he left the fort on March 9, and went in the direction of Cherryvale; but he, in a like manner, disappeared, and all after-search for him by his brother and a host of friends was fruitless, notwithstanding the fact that a large reward was offered for any intelligence of his fate. The search, however, for Dr. York led to the finding of the bodies of the old man and child in the ravine near Drum Creek, with their throats cuts from ear to ear. Further search at this time resulted in the discovery of a wagon wedged in between two trees, the horses having been unable to liberate it, and from the half-starved condition of these animals it is supposed they must have been thus held for several days. The marks of bullets and blood upon the wagon indicated that a conflict had taken place; and it was surmised that while the owners of the wagon were being murdered the horses doubtless became alarmed, and made their escape, finally getting fastened in the manner described. Who these persons were has not yet been found out.

While making the search for Dr. York, the house of the Benders was visited by several parties; but to all the answer was returned that no one had seen the missing man. The persistence with which these inquiries were made, and the constant advertising through the papers of this State of the strange disappearance of Dr. York, doubtless caused some alarm in the minds of the Bender family, although no one at this time had any definite information which traced the disappearances to their agency. About a week ago, a man riding from the prairie noticed that no smoke was to be seen issuing from the chimney of Bender's house, that the doors and windows were closed, and not a sign of life was visible. This did not particularly excite his curiosity until he noticed in the lot a calf which had apparently died of starvation. This excited his suspicion, and he galloped over to Cherryvale with the news. The town soon became excited, and it was then remembered that William Bender had, about April 24, sold a watch, some clothing, two mules, and some other property. All became impressed with the idea that the Bender family had, from some good cause, taken a hasty leave of their residence. This looked suspicious, and a party went out from Cherryvale to make some inquiries.

On arriving at the place, the out-house or stable was first examined, and next the larger room of the cabin. Everything was exactly as the Benders had left them, and there was nothing to indicate murder or foul play. Even in the rear room there was nothing suspicious at the first glance; but, on removing one of the two beds, a slight depression in the floor led to the discovery of a trap-door upon hinges. Raising this trap, a well, about six feet deep and five feet wide, was uncovered; and upon descending into it, the ground was found to be saturated with thick, fœtid blood, which stuck to the fingers of those who had been groping about at the bottom of the well. The horror excited by this discovery may well be imagined, and the clue to many of the mysterious disappearances [illegible]. The soft ground at the bottom of the well was bored with rods, but nothing rewarded the search of the now excited party. There was no doubt that murder had been committed, and that the bleeding bodies had been thrust into this well; but what had afterward been done with them was as yet a mystery. It was then suggested that the garden should be examined, and all set to work boring the ground with rods. For an hour the search was fruitless; but at the end of that time the point of a rod touched something. Shovels were called for, and the ground opened, when the body of a man, face downward, was found. There was no coffin, and a torn and discolored shirt was all that covered the body. With care the remains were disinterred, for a portion of the flesh had fallen from the lower limbs; but when the body was laid on its back, to the horror of all present, it was found to be that of Dr. York. Although very much swollen, the face was perfect enough for identification, and a wound at the back of the head plainly indicated the cause of death. The skull had been driven into the brain with a blow from some weapon like a hammer, and in the house were found two shoemaker's hammers. The news of this discovery was speedily conveyed to Senator York, who soon visited the scene with a coffin in which to deposit the remains, which he readily identified as those of his missing brother, an injury to the knee proving the matter beyond a doubt.

This discovery, instead of satisfying the searchers, only whetted their anxiety, and the rod was again put in requisition. In a short time six more graves were discovered, five containing single corpses, and one an old man and a little girl. Some of the bodies were beyond recognition, but others had enough of humanity left to admit of identification. It was evident that all had been the victims of the murderers' violence, and there was no doubt but that the Bender family had committed the butchery, doubtless for the sake of plunder. Darkness fell on the scene, but the search continued; and before midnight three other graves were discovered. At the present writing these last have not been opened, but of the eight bodies which have been disinterred, six have been recognized, as follows: Dr. York, H. Longcbos and child, identified by his father-in-law; W. F. McCarthy, a soldier of Company D, One Hundred and Twenty-third Illinois Volunteers; D. Brown, identified by a silver ring on his finger, and John Geary, of Howard County, recognized by his wife. The throats of all had been cut, except that of the little girl.

The excitement on the discovery of these bodies was so intense that the crowd which had gathered on the premises, seeing among them a man named Brockman, who was supposed to know something about the murders, seized him and strung him up to a beam until life was nearly extinct, when they cut him down and called upon him to confess. Finding him obstinately silent, they again hung him by the neck until nearly dead, when he was once more let down and restored. He now appeared to have lost mental sensation, and did not seem to understand what the furious crowd wanted, as they again shouted for him to confess. A third time he was hoisted up to the beam, and this time it was believed the strangulation had proved fatal; but upon being laid on the ground in the open air he recovered, and was allowed to stagger away.

The search of the grounds will be conducted with great perseverance, until it has been satisfactorily ascertained that nothing further can be found. People are collecting from different parts of the country in order to ascertain if any of their missing friends are among the dead. Three men from Howard County have been missed, and one has been found among the murdered victims. The disappearance of a stone-mason named Jones, who left Osage Mission to go to Independence, is now supposed to be accounted for, and the stories of other similar disappearances are being revived for the purpose of tracing clues which may lead to the identification of the bodies. There is but little doubt but that these outlaws have been carrying on their work of robbery and murder for a long time, and heavy rewards are now being offered for the capture of the murderers.

Latest from the Scene of the Murders.

PARSONS, Kansas, May 12.—Reports from the scene of the Bender murders say three more graves were discovered yesterday. Over 2,000 people were on the ground. The excitement all over the country is intense. Nearly all the bodies of the dead were indecently mutilated. It is considered certain the little girl was thrown alive into the grave with her father, as no marks of violence were found on her body.

LOUISIANA.

Attitude of the National Authorities—The Constitution Their Sole Guide.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The President speaks of the reports from this city printed in the newspapers of to-day, attributing to him a purpose to institute high-handed proceedings in Louisiana affairs, as wholesale invention. He remarked to-day that his course could not be more decided than it had been, and that, if further occasion arose for his action, he should respond as promptly as heretofore within the limit of the Constitution and the laws. A proclamation to subdue the Louisiana rebels, such as is attributed to him, would be ridiculous; but a proclamation as the usual warning and legal prelude to the use of the United States troops for the purpose of quelling local insurrection, upon the requisition of the Governor, would be a very ordinary and proper thing.

BRASHEAR CITY, La., May 12.—The steamboat Ozark, under orders, left here to-day at 11½ o'clock for St. Martinsville with army supplies. No troops were on board.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The Financial Disturbance—$100,000,000 Collapse in Values on the Vienna Bourse—Austrian Toleration.

LONDON, May 12.—The financial crisis in Vienna disturbs all the money markets of Europe, and causes a shrinkage in values on the Vienna Bourse of $100,000,000. The shrinkage in American securities in Germany is estimated at $10,000,000. In London there was a serious depression on Saturday, which increased this morning. The market recovered this afternoon, but recent American legislation, and the hostile tone of a portion of the American Press toward European capitalists, occasions general anxiety among investors in American securities.

VIENNA, May 12.—The Bourse has not yet recovered from the effects of the panic. No business was done to-day.

Divine service after the form of the Church of England was publicly held here yesterday, and was largely attended by the Americans and Englishmen, to whom the use of the Garrison Church was granted by the authorities for the purpose. Rev. Mr. Mombert officiated. At the close of the services Minister Jay, speaking for the officiating clergyman, tendered thanks to the Austrian authorities for their kindness and consideration.

Imperial and Royal Visitors Expected in Vienna.

VIENNA, May 12.—The arrangements for the visit of the Emperor of Russia to Vienna have been completed. It is announced that his Majesty will arrive on the 1st of June, and the next day will make the tour of the exposition. He will remain here six days, during which a series of magnificent fêtes are contemplated.

The King of the Belgians will reach the city three days before the Czar, and will stay throughout the festivities.

The visit of the Czar will be succeeded by one from the Emperor Wilhelm, the time for which has not yet been settled.

Coronation of the King and Queen of Sweden and Norway.

STOCKHOLM, May 12.—The coronation of Oscar II. and Sophia Wilhelmina, as King and Queen of Sweden and Norway, took place today. The weather was unfavorable, but immense crowds witnessed the royal procession, and cheered with enthusiasm as the new King walked to the church in a pouring rain.

The ceremonies within the church were of imposing splendor. The principal foreign Powers had sent special envoys to be present on the occasion. These, in their court costumes, with the regular members of the diplomatic body, and the chief dignitaries of the state and church, made a brilliant spectacle.

At the moment of the coronation the trumpets pealed, salutes were fired, and the vast assemblage of people outside the sacred edifice cheered, and shouted, "Long live the King!"

To-night there is a general illumination, and the city is given up to festivity and rejoicing.

Virtual Capture of the Khirghese Capital by the Russians.

LONDON, May 12.—Khiva is taken. The troops from Tashkend and Fort No. 1, after a concentration in the Bowkan hills, marched directly across the Kizil Kum Desert to the lower Oxus. There they communicated with the supply steamers from Fort No. 1, thus practically establishing a new base within striking distance of Khiva. This makes the success of further operations a certainty.

LONDON, May 13—6 A. M.—A special dispatch to the Daily Telegraph reports that Khiva has fallen. No date or place is given to the dispatch.

The Electoral System of France—Difficulty in the Cabinet.

PARIS, May 12.—A serious disagreement has arisen in the Cabinet over the Electoral bill, which is now being prepared for submission to the Assembly. M. Jules Simon and the Count de Rémusat are against any change in the present electoral system. M. Leon Say is in favor of the new bill. MM. Goulard and Dufaure insist that two years' domicile be made a condition of voting.

The supplemental election in Rochelle yesterday resulted in the return of a Bonapartist to the National Assembly. Charges of bribery are made in connection with the election, and the seat of the member-elect will be contested.

M. Arthur Ranc, the Radical candidate, was yesterday elected, by an overwhelming majority, to the Assembly, from Lyons. He was Director of the General Safety, under the administration of M. Gambetta, and subsequently became a member of the Commune, from which he resigned on the publication of the decree for the execution of the hostages.

LONDON, May 12.—The Republican Conference at Birmingham to-day adopted a resolution in favor of a federal republican form of government for Great Britain.

The Mob Demonstration in Rome—Arrest of Rioters.

ROME, May 12.—The police have arrested twenty of the persons who participated in the riotous demonstrations before the Quirinal, to intimidate Parliament, on Saturday last. The city has been quiet since yesterday. The demonstration is strongly condemned by a large majority of the deputies, and the Government promises vigorous measures to prevent its recurrence.

The British Parliament—The Atlantic's Supply of Coal.

LONDON, May 13—6 A. M.—The Observer's statement that Parliament will be dissolved early next year is semi-officially contradicted.

Repulse of Modocs by Capt. Hasbrouck's Command—Interment of Lieut. Cranston and His Companions.

THE BODIES OF THE MISSING.

LAVA BEDS, Cal., May 10, via YREKA, May 12.—On the 9th inst., an expedition for the recovery of the bodies of Lieut. Arthur Cranston, of the Fourth Artillery, and the men of his command who were missing after the engagement of April 26, and also of the men who could not be brought off from the field, left the camp under the command of Lieut. Edward Field, of the Fourth Artillery. The force consisted of Batteries A and K, of the Fourth Artillery, and Companies E and G, of the Twelfth Infantry, under the command of Lieuts. Camp and Kingsbury. The command left camp at 6½ o'clock A.M., and was supported by Troops F and K, of the First Cavalry, and a detachment of Troop H, of the same regiment, the cavalry being under the command of Capt. Joel H. Trimble, of the First Cavalry. The object of the expedition was frustrated by reason of the advanced state of decomposition in which the bodies were found. The troops, however, buried the bodies on the field where they fell, and head-boards were placed at the graves of Lieut. Cranston and the men who were with him. The bodies of the eight men who were left on the field had had sage-brush piled over them, which had been fired by the Indians, and were almost unrecognizable. The troops advanced as skirmishers, with their flanks well protected. The skirmishers were deployed in groups of three, instead of the usual order—five or ten paces apart. The flanks were thrown back to a depth nearly equal to the front.

Gen. Davis is awaiting information from Capt. Hasbrouck, commanding the troops in pursuit of the Modocs.

Inspector General Hardee started this morning for Fort Klamath, Oregon, where he is instructed to learn from the Indian Agent the disposition of the Indians in that vicinity. When this is accomplished, the General will return and proceed on a tour of inspection through the several posts of Oregon and Nevada, and to Fort Colville, Idaho.

Acting Assistant Surgeon B. Semig, United States Army, had his leg amputated yesterday midway between the ankle and knee. He has been recommended by all the officers in this command for a commission, with a view of placing him on the retired list.

ST. LOUIS.

The Congressional Convention—Results of the Preliminary Caucus—The Programme Resolved Upon.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 10.—The Convention of Congressmen meets to-morrow at noon. Little more than this can be said in the way of definite statement about it. There have yet been but few arrivals of members of Congress, and those who are here from other States are not those who give great weight to any deliberative body. Congressman Wells, of this city, who has been laboriously and vigorously rushing forward the local arrangements, expects a large increase in the number of delegates when the morning trains come in. Very few would start last week to be out over Sunday, and there has not been time for those leaving distant homes on Sunday evening to reach here yet. Over 100 have accepted the invitation, or given some assurance of being present, so that not one-third of the national Legislature, perhaps not more than one-fourth, will be found in the convention. Not more than half a dozen Senators have responded favorably. No member of either House will come from New-England, except Small, from New-Hampshire. New-York is credited with the intention of sending four, one of whom is Ellis H. Roberts, now in Europe. The people who are already here for the convention are, for the most part, from the South-west and from Indiana, Virginia, and Georgia. Gens. Young and Cook, from the latter State; Judge Orth, from Indiana, and Gov. Walker, of Virginia, are the most prominent of those here. Gov. Noyes, of Ohio; Senator Ramsey, of Minnesota, Representatives Niblack, Coburn, and Eldridge are among the best known of all who are coming. So far as now known, it is pretty clear that the convention is purposeless. It has no definite task before it. There is no proposition to present, or if there is, it is yet concealed. It appears as though there was to be a large number of speeches, made up of glittering generalities, or worse, generalities with glitter. The text will be the need of cheap transportation and its relation to the development of the great West, and will be duly kept in the foreground. Perhaps it would be fairer to call the meeting a conference on one of the most important of the questions agitating the country, out of which new light and information may come, and possibly a policy of action be settled upon. At any rate, the affair is at sea and drifting. A rudder may be adjusted and sails set to-morrow. One danger is anticipated, and will be averted if possible. It is that the speech-making may be absorbed by local orators, and the convention be a local exhibition merely, at which the rest of the country will attend as a spectator.

THE PRELIMINARY CAUCUS.

There was a preliminary caucus of Congressmen already arrived, held at the Southern Hotel this evening, for the purpose of deciding what should be done to-morrow. About twenty were present. The result of a brief deliberation was important. It was decided not to participate in the organization or the proceedings of the convention, but simply to attend and comply with and be governed in their action strictly by the language of the invitation. The invitation sent to each Senator and member of the House reads as follows:

"You are respectfully and earnestly invited to attend a convention of members of both Houses of Congress, to be held in this city, commencing on the 13th of May, at 12 o'clock M., at which time it is proposed to lay before you the agricultural, manufacturing, and commercial needs of the West and South, in the hope of thereby securing your co-operation toward obtaining such national legislation as will insure the improvement of present and opening up of new water-lines of transportation to the seaboard."

The caucus decided very properly. Congressmen were invited to have projects and proposals laid before them, and not to discuss and deliberate. If individual members were invited to speak they can do so, as at any public meeting, as citizens, and not as members of Congress. The members of the South and West will not be restrained as citizens from laying the interests referred to before the convention, but not many of them seem inclined to such action.

Mayor Brown will probably preside. His name leads the signatures to the invitation, and not a Congressman's name appears among them. The whole thing would appear to have been resolved into a convention of Western and Southern citizens presenting their interests to such members of Congress as their invitations have brought together. There can certainly be no objection to this.

The week will see many festivities. A local meeting to-morrow night, and a banquet Thursday night at the Southern, have been arranged. The excursion will leave here for Galveston on Friday morning. Gen. Bussey, Judge Kennard, and Mr. Armstrong are a committee from New-Orleans to invite the excursionists there, and if the invitation is accepted, the excursion will extend from Galveston, by the Morgan line of steamers, to Berwick's Bay, thence to New-Orleans by rail, and to the obstructions in the Mississippi channel at Balize.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, May 12.—Some fifty Congressmen have already arrived, to attend the Congressional Conference, to commence here to-morrow, and a still larger number are expected to arrive in the morning trains. Members from the following States signified their intention to be present: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, New-Hampshire, New-Jersey, New-York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, and Wisconsin. A disposition has been manifested here to take the organization of the conference out of the hands of the Executive Committee, and give the conference the privilege of choosing its own chairman, and a caucus of Congressmen was called to-night to discuss the matter, but the proposition was voted down unanimously.

MONDAY, May 12—P. M.

The sales of Gold were ⅛@¼ ₱ cent. lower than on Saturday, the sudden advance then made on the Cable news from London and the Continent not being sustained. The sales of the day were at 117¾@118@117⅝@117¾ ₱ cent. The Cables to-day were not so reassuring as anticipated from the Vienna dispatch in the papers of Sunday morning. The Stock panic has extended to the Hamburg market, where the rate for May is advanced to 6½ ₱ cent. per annum, and much distrust prevails on the Bourse. It is given out that the Bank of Prussia at Berlin is refusing the paper of certain of the Hamburg Credit Banks because of their supposed connection with the fancy speculations in their own City, and in Frankfort, Vienna, &c.

While the news to-day fails to strengthen the Gold Room, the effect upon the foreign Exchanges is to sustain the advanced rates of Saturday on London of 108¾ ₱ cent. 60 days, and 109¾ ₱ cent. Sight Bills. The market has a firm look, but chiefly on the settlement of Credits. The Importers, as a rule, are not disposed to buy at the advance.

There is no want of Money at 7 ₱ cent. among the Brokers to-day, but the Stock Exchange is running lower—or, perhaps, we should say, somewhat bearish upon the Foreign financial news. The pressure to sell is even more marked than on Saturday Afternoon, and there is more or less impression made upon the Railroad Shares, and also upon Pacific Mail, while the Telegraph Stock was comparatively better sustained. Among the Railroads a special drive was made at Erie Stock, encouraged by the much lower quotations from London, and there was also apparent eagerness to sell New-York Central and Lake Shore, and in like proportion the lighter Road Stocks of the West, such as Ohios, St. Paul, C., C. and Indiana Central, &c. The Stock of the Rock Island Road was an exception to the prevailing weakness in prices. The Railway bonds show rather a steady demand, and the Public Funds of the United States are again firm. At 4 o'clock P. M., the following quotations were made on the general market as compared with Saturday night:

Messrs. Fairbanks & Co., the Financial Agents of the Portland and Ogdensburg Road, advise us that the Road is being completed at a less cost than the original estimates, and that the Mortgage Bonds are meeting with favor from the public.

We have been requested to call attention to a notice of meeting of St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad stockholders, to be held to-morrow, (Tuesday,) at No. 67 Wall-street.

The April earnings of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Road are $261,714, the largest traffic since the opening of the line.

BANKING AND FINANCIAL.

OFFICE OF FISK & HATCH,
BANKERS, &c., No. 5 NASSAU-ST.,
NEW-YORK, May 11, 1873.

☞ The CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILROAD, now built and in operation as a through line of travel and traffic between the chief cities of the Ohio Valley and the East, (420 miles,) makes regular connections at Richmond with railroads leading to all points along the seaboard, and with the Old Dominion line steamers for New-York, and at Huntington, on the Ohio River, with fast packets for Cincinnati, Louisville, &c. In order to accommodate the large traffic in Western produce seeking outlet to market over this road, the Company are extending the main line eastward to a deep-water terminus on the Chesapeake Bay, where the largest European steamers can load and unload alongside its tracks, and are adding to the equipment of the road, and otherwise enlarging the carrying and transfer facilities to meet the great traffic which its short line, low grades, and other operating advantages are attracting to it.

We offer for sale $3,000,000 of their SEVEN PER CENT. GOLD BONDS authorized for these purposes and amply secured by mortgage on the property. Bonds are of $1,000 each; principal and interest payable in gold coin, in New-York City, interest Jan. 1 and July 1. Price 90 and accrued interest.

We continue to deal in GOVERNMENT and CENTRAL and WESTERN PACIFIC Bonds, receive deposits, on which we allow interest, make collections, execute orders at the Stock Exchange for cash, and conduct a general banking business.

Full information concerning the bonds, the railroad, and the resources of the country tributary thereto furnished on application.

COMMERCIAL AFFAIRS.

NEW-YORK, Monday, May 12, 1873.

BEES-WAX—Has been moderately sought after, from 36½c.@38c. for Yellow.

COAL—Domestic is selling freely at full prices. Foreign is unchanged in value: trade slack. We quote: Liverpool House Cannel at $18@$20; do. Gas do. at $16@$18; Anthracite, from yard, $5@$6 25 ₱ ton.

COCOA—Has been quiet at old figures.

COFFEE—Rio has been offered with much less freedom, and holders have been claiming extreme rates, checking business, though a good inquiry has been noted. Sales have been reported here of 1,000 bags by the Wavelet at 18½c., and at Baltimore, 3,000 bags by the Mindora at 18½c., gold, ₱ lb., leaving the stock in first hands, at all the distributing ports, this evening, 100,952 bags, including 74,225 bags here, 19,022 bags at Baltimore, and 13,705 bags at the other outports. Maracaibo has been in fair request at full rates; an invoice, to arrive, was reported sold on private terms; Java quoted stronger and wanted; offerings light; 5,000 mats sold from second hands on private terms. Other kinds held with confidence, and in light supply, but without activity. We quote invoices thus: Rio, 17½c.@18c.; fair, 18½c.@18½c.; good, 18¾c.@19c.; prime, 19½c.@ ₱c.; gold, ₱ lb., 60 and 90 days' credit; Rio, in lots, 17½c.@20c., gold; Java, 20½c.@23c.; Maracaibo, 18¾c.@19½c.; Laguayra, 16½c.@20c.; San Domingo, 15½c.@16c., gold.

COTTON—Has been slow of sale for early delivery and rather easier in prices, though the official quotations have not been altered. Sales have been reported of 1,133 bales, including 536 bales to shippers, 459 bales to spinners, and 138 bales to speculators. There has been a fair movement noted for early delivery, but at a reduction of ⅛c.@1-16c. ₱ lb. Sales have been officially reported since our last of 15,700 bales, (of which 1,800 bales on Saturday evening and 13,900 bales to-day,) basis Low Middling, with May contracts closing at 18⅛c., June at 18 9-16c.; July at 18¾c.@18 11-16c.; August at 18⅞c.@18 15-16c.; and September at 17¾c. The receipts at this port to-day were 4,107 bales, including 1,054 bales from Norfolk, 703 bales from Savannah, 99 bales from Newbern, 1,905 bales from New-Orleans, 346 bales per rail. The reported receipts at all the ports to-day were 9,397 bales, and thus far this week 15,280 bales, against 17,081 bales same time the previous week, and since Sept. 1 3,307,402 bales, against 2,599,934 bales same time last year. The following quotations are based on Cotton, in store, running in quality not more than half a grade above or below the grade named:

The Macdonnell Extradition Case.

The investigation in the matter of the extradition of George Macdonnell, the alleged Bank of England forger, was resumed yesterday before United States Commissioner Joseph Gutman. Mr. DaCosta appeared for the Bank of England and Mr. Brooks for the prisoner.

Sergt. Henry Webb, of the London detective force, testified that the Lord Mayor was the principal criminal magistrate of London, and Mr. Peter Williams, one of the solicitors of the Bank of England, gave formal evidence of the name and charter of the bank. Mr. Brooks objected to the evidence as irrelevant. The case for the prosecution then closed, and Mr. Brooks offered a special plea, which was objected to and the Commissioner refused to receive it. Counsel for the prisoner then moved to strike out certain portions of the evidence for the prosecution, which on argument was denied. A similar application was made in respect to portions of the depositions, and after hearing both sides the Commissioner reserved his decision. The further hearing of the case was then postponed to Saturday at 11 o'clock A. M.

The Brooklyn Gasmen's Strike.

The street-lamps throughout Brooklyn were lighted again last evening, and the company, whose men are on strike, have now very little fear of a failure in the supply. The officials of the company are firm in their refusal to accede to the demands of the strikers, and it was stated yesterday that many of the latter were anxious to return to work on the terms offered. Three or four affrays occurred yesterday in the neighborhood of the gas-works.

Fourth, all of the road from the Sabine River to the City of Houston, in the State of Texas, with all the lands, rights of way, superstructures, buildings, depots, stations, station-houses, shops, rolling stock, machinery, materials, appertaining or belonging to the line of road from the Sabine River aforesaid to the City of Houston, and exclusively belonging to the same, and any other real and personal property, franchises, rights of way, tolls, grants of privileges not herein described, and which are included in the said deed; and it is to be understood that the sale under the deed of trust, and the decree herein mentioned, is to be subject to a deed of trust bearing date the 1st day of January, 1869, by the said corporation to Oakes Ames and Edwin D. Morgan, trustees, and which affects that portion of the said road and property before mentioned lying within the cities of New-Orleans and Mobile and between the said cities, and is not to impair in any manner the incumbrance aforesaid or the rights under the said deed, the said mortgage or deed to said parties being made to secure a uniform series of bonds of four thousand in number, and each for one thousand dollars, with interest, coupons attached of forty dollars each, payable semi-annually on the 1st of January and July of each year, and bearing even date with the mortgage, and which is referred to in the said mortgage or deed of trust to the plaintiff in this suit. And it is further understood that the property included in the second and third or other parcels above described, being the property lying westerly of the City of New-Orleans and the Mississippi River, in the States of Louisiana and Texas, shall be subject to the mortgages or deeds of trust executed by the said corporation under the power reserved in the deed of mortgage or trust described in the proceedings in this cause to issue bonds to an amount in the aggregate not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars per mile for each mile of the railroad or railroads constructed west of the Mississippi River, which power has been executed by the said corporation by the execution of a mortgage executed to Oakes Ames and Edwin D. Morgan, dated the 15th day of March, 1870, whereby an issue of bonds to the amount of twelve thousand five hundred dollars per mile was provided for upon all the tract of road in the State of Louisiana, and the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars for all of the track west of the Louisiana line and lying in the State of Texas, which mortgage was modified by an act of mortgage dated 1st January, 1872, but does not increase the amount of the incumbrances; and also a further mortgage, bearing date 1st July, 1870, securing the payment of the second mortgage bonds guaranteed by the State of Louisiana, and which mortgage is an incumbrance on the railroad of said corporation to the west of the river Mississippi and extending to the Sabine River, and all other mortgages existing under said power. There will be prepared twenty days before the day of sale an inventory of the property to be sold in the different parcels, and copies of the mortgages will be in the hands of the Masters for exhibition to any person desiring to purchase. The power to the Trustees to bid for the bondholders is reserved in the decree. The Trustees and the Masters will give information of the matter intrusted to them prior to the sale.

If we may believe a cable dispatch from London, the Russian expedition against Khiva has gained such an advantageous base of operations that success is practically secured. This news, it need hardly be remarked, will require confirmation before it can be generally accepted. Assuming for the present that Khiva has been virtually captured by the troops of the Czar, the question arises, what will he do with it? Russia is under a kind of diplomatic contract with England to retire from Khiva after the Khan has been sufficiently punished for his outrages upon the subjects of the Czar. But such public opinion as is allowed expression in Russia decidedly favors a permanent protectorate over the Khanate, and the fact of this opinion being defended by the leading Russian papers is presumptive proof that it represents the policy to be adopted by the Government.

A synopsis of the report of a committee of the Board of Supervisors, of which Mr. VANCE is chairman, which we give this morning, calls public attention to a matter of importance. The claims of the College of the City of New-York to public support cannot be questioned, and the suggestions made by the committee would undoubtedly render it still more useful. We hope, therefore, that the new trustees will take them into careful consideration. This college has long been the pride of the City, and as it can easily be made still more creditable, the reforms which this committee show to be needed should be made at once.

In a letter published this morning will be found the details of the discovery of atrocious murders committed by a family named BENDER, near Cherryvale, Labette County, Kansas. Thirteen mutilated bodies have thus far been found buried in the garden of the house where this family lived, but from which they fled before suspicion was excited or a search begun. The presumed incentive to murder in all these cases was plunder, and there is reason to believe that the victims had all been lured into the tavern of the BENDERS for the purpose of robbery and assassination. It is not strange that the community in which these atrocities were committed is greatly excited, and that a man who was supposed to be implicated in them was put to torture by the infuriated people. These proceedings cannot be justified, but no effort should be spared to hunt down the guilty and bring them to justice through the forms of law.

Those patriots who are seeking to serve the public as City marshals display such great eagerness in the matter that they have doubtless forgotten the new charter makes these places much less desirable than they were under the old fee system. By the former law, the marshals received all the fees they collected, which made some of their positions very remunerative; but the present law provides that no officer of the City Government shall receive any fees, but shall be paid by a salary, to be fixed by the Board of Apportionment, and in no case over $3,000 per annum. In determining the compensation to be given the City marshal, the Board of Apportionment should be guided by the same wise economy which governed the Legislature in the matter of salaries. Considering the grade and duties of this office, it is not worth more than $2,000 per annum; and the board will doubtless name that sum as the maximum. When this fact is generally understood, the number and ardor of the applicants for these positions will greatly diminish.

Although some influences are at work to induce Gov. DIX to veto the bill annexing portions of Westchester County to the City, there is no cause to fear that they will be successful. The bill met with such general and hearty approval in the Legislature, and has so plainly the approbation of the great majority of the people interested in the matter on both sides, that it is not easy to see how the Governor can interpose any objections. The project is one that must very soon be consummated, and there does not appear any reason why it should not be carried out now. If the Governor desire any further expression of opinion from the City, he can find it in the resolution unanimously adopted by the Board of Aldermen yesterday, asking him to sign the bill. These gentlemen are the representatives of the whole City, and are better entitled to speak for it than the few who are opposing the measure in consequence of a delusion that certain property interests will suffer from it. Gov. DIX, in this affair, as in all his public acts, will doubtless consult the general good rather than individual preferences, and the bill, consequently, cannot be in much danger of a veto.

It is reported from Washington that the President has tendered the vacant post of Minister at St. Petersburg to Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPONT, of this City, who is in many regards amply qualified to fill it. It is not known what is the purpose of that gentleman with reference to the position.

The Action of the Aldermen.

It is quite certain the general public will not approve the course taken by the Board of Aldermen yesterday in relation to the last nominations of the Mayor. While it would have been better, perhaps, for Mr. HAVEMEYER not to delay sending in new names until all he had transmitted had been acted on, the doubts which exist as to the propriety of his course can in no way justify the alliance of Aldermen VAN SCHAICK, COOPER, KEHR, and KOCH with the Tammany members to coerce the Mayor into a different policy. It is expected of the Aldermen to pass upon each person named for office solely on his individual merits, and the postponement of action on the names already in until Monday next—when the Mayor must, under the law, send in all his nominations—was an inexcusable refusal to perform an obvious duty. By taking the course they have, the four Aldermen named have practically made their Tammany associates masters of the Board, and have placed a serious obstacle in the way of securing proper officials. For this offense they will be held to a strict account by public sentiment. They will also be expected to explain their subsequent action as supervisors, when they were found acting in the same interest to defeat an organization desired by the Reform members.

The whole thing looks like a bargain with Tammany, in which the two parties to the alliance hope to find mutual profit. It is for these Aldermen to determine whether they can afford to rest under this suspicion. We do not believe they can, and they can only relieve themselves of it by ceasing to vote as Tammany desires. It is at least certain that by persisting in their present course they will bring the body to which they belong again into public disrepute. It was the purpose of the new charter in giving them the power of confirmation to put a check upon improper appointments, but by prostituting this power to the purpose of political bartering they are presenting a strong argument against the policy of leaving it in their hands. It certainly was not put there for the purpose of giving Aldermen an opportunity to "trade" their friends into office, and they are as certainly giving the public good reason to believe that they intend to put it to this use.

The only course open to the Aldermen, if they expect to retain public respect and confidence, is to act in relation to these appointments solely upon the merits of each case as it comes up. If they do anything else, they sink at once to the level of their disreputable Tammany predecessors, and cause a regret in the public mind that a power has been given them which they show themselves unfit to exercise. The excuse that the action they have taken was due to the dignity of their body is too puerile to be seriously considered. The people have a habit of judging motives by acts, which is very inconvenient to unworthy officials, and seeing four Aldermen elected as Reformers in close alliance with Tammany, they cannot be convinced that any good is intended or can result from it. There is nothing involved here but a question of the proper or improper exercise of a delegated trust, and but one answer will be made by the people—these Aldermen have not been true to the cause they were chosen to serve.

Whether Mayor HAVEMEYER intends to nominate persons urged upon him by these or other Aldermen, is a matter concerning which the public have no concern. All that is desired is, that the City offices under the new charter shall be filled by honest and competent men, who can be trusted to do nothing to revive Tammany. If the Mayor nominates such, the Aldermen are expected to confirm them. There is no question that thus far such nominations have been made, with some possible exceptions among the Marshals. It was, then, the plain duty of the Aldermen to act upon these names, and the postponement until all the nominations are in can have but one interpretation. It justifies the stories which have been current concerning combinations; it means a return to the practices which Tammany made infamous. Mr. COOPER cannot afford to take this responsibility, even to get his numerous friends into office, nor to obtain the Presidency of the Board of Supervisors, for which he has been named by his Tammany allies. Mr. VAN SCHAICK owes it to the interest he was elected to represent to break away from his present unsavory associations, and Messrs. KEHR & KOCH will find it impossible by their present course to obtain commissionerships or to retain the confidence of the honest German reformers, in whose name they have claimed to speak. It is probable these Aldermen will be given an opportunity to place themselves once more in full accord with the reform sentiment. We hope they will not fail to improve it.

Rights of Labor.

There is at present a strike among the horse-shoers employed by a portion of the City railroad and omnibus companies. The companies and the horse-shoers cannot agree as to terms, and the men have left their work. We believe they had a clear right to do so, and that they violated no agreement previously assented to. No one questions their right to control their own labor absolutely. That might have been objected to thirty years since, but it is not now and never again will be in this country. But in this case the strikers do not stop with the exercise of their plain and fully-conceded rights. The companies have refused their demands, and have employed other horse-shoers. These are compelled to work under the constant protection of the police. The employers state that they could get ten men for every one they require if it were not for the fear of personal violence felt by the applicants. This may be an exaggerated statement, but there is no mistake about the policemen. They are standing guard over the new workmen, and they would not be kept there if there were not reasonable ground for fearing a disturbance of the peace.

In Brooklyn there is a strike of the gas-men. The general feeling of the community is with them as far as their demands are concerned. They are regarded as being subjected to hard treatment, and receiving poor pay for very burdensome labor. We believe most Brooklynites would have submitted with a good grace to the temporary inconvenience involved if the company struck against could have been made to succumb. It has long been an oppressive monopoly, making very exorbitant profits, acting in a quite arbitrary manner with its customers, crushing out all competition with unsparing energy, and supplying a very indifferent article of gas. If such a company could be made, even by a pretty harsh process, to pay liberal wages to their employes, its customers, at least, would not begrudge the laborers the victory. But the strikers have not been content with seeking their ends by withdrawing from the employ of the company. They have resorted not only to threats, but to cruel and cowardly violence to prevent others from taking their places. On the landing of a dozen Germans, intended for the gas-works, a crowd of strikers, accompanied by their friends, to the number of several hundreds, attacked them with stones and sticks, and beat them as they ran through the streets, until they were rescued by the police, and conveyed secretly to the works. The gas company's buildings are now under a guard of police, and the workmen are not allowed to leave the premises.

These facts are simply disgraceful. They are a disgrace to the workmen who descend to such outrages, and to the community in which they are tolerated without punishment both prompt and severe. The right of every man to dispose of his own labor, on such terms and to such purchasers as he may elect, without molestation or interference of any kind from any source, is the very basis of our modern industrial life. It is the recognition of that right, coupled with political freedom, that has made our country so attractive to the laboring classes, and so hospitable a home for them. That right ought not to be surrendered, and until the public becomes utterly lost to all sense of self-respect, it will not be. We hear a great deal in these days of the rights of labor. This is the first and most important of them all. It sustains all the remainder. Workmen would be justly indignant if the employers undertook to control their course by violence. They should resist with equal earnestness any attempt by their fellow-workmen to do the same thing. Those who undertake it practice the worst form of tyranny. Those who submit to it submit to a very coarse and odious form of slavery. And this is true, whether the trade's union is a party directly or indirectly to the movement or not. The union is a voluntary organization. If its members choose to agree to abide by its rules, they may do so, so long as they do not encroach on the rights of others. The rules may be oppressive, or ridiculous, or unreasonable, and opposed to the true interests of the members. They often are all these. But when the trade's union requires, encourages, or tolerates violence or threats of violence, it commits a great wrong against society; and the wrong is by far the greatest against the laboring class, whose freedom is thus encroached upon.

The Value of Jay Gould.

A week ago it would not have been easy to estimate the exact value of Mr. JAY GOULD. Of course, an approximate knowledge of the amount of property owned by him might be gained at any time by crediting him with, say one-half of the money that the Erie stockholders did not receive by way of dividends during his rule over that corporation. There is a vast difference, however, between GOULD and his money, and if we knew precisely the value of his property, we should still be no nearer to a knowledge of the exact value of the man. Were there any active demand for GOULD, we should naturally know his market price, though this would not necessarily be the same as his actual intrinsic value. There is, however, no demand whatever for GOULD. Nobody wants him, and there is no probability that any one except the Sheriff will hereafter want him, unless it should happen that a clique of ambitious young men should desire GOULD to buy a newspaper wherewith to give them employment. Had it not been for Mr. MARRIN'S assault upon GOULD'S nose, that eminent financier would, probably, have descended to his tomb leaving his otherwise delighted fellow-citizens entirely in the dark as to the true value of the man when devoid of money and clothed only with his unique and curious moral qualities.

The result of the flattening of GOULD'S nose was the arrest and trial of MARRIN, the flattener; and the result of the trial was a partial appraisement, by the court, of GOULD'S person. After a full statement of the facts in the case, by which it appeared that GOULD'S nose was the only feature in any way injured by the vengeful MARRIN, it was decided that the latter should pay the sum of $200 in full for GOULD'S nasal damages. Now, from this judicial appraisement of one of GOULD'S features we can form an approximate idea of his entire value. His ears, had they been violently pulled, would hardly have been rated higher than his nose, or, in other words, at $200 each. If we estimate his eyes to be each worth rather more than double his nose, we should be making a fair appraisement. Let us, then, say $500 for both eyes, $350 for his mouth, (including teeth,) and $100 for his hair—the latter being an article which can easily be replaced—we thus have, as the total value of the exterior of GOULD'S head, the sum of $1,550.

Legs and arms are rated higher, as a rule, than eyes or noses. We may roughly estimate GOULD'S supply of those useful limbs at $1,000 each. Now, every unprejudiced judge will admit that were a man to be deprived of eyes, ears, nose, mouth, hair, legs, and arms, his value would be reduced at least fifty per cent. We have therefore only to double the items already obtained to arrive at a fair idea of the intrinsic worth of GOULD. Eleven thousand one hundred dollars may therefore be accepted as his approximate value; and that gentleman may well feel grateful to us for thus appraising him at a figure very much higher than any one has hitherto considered him to be worth. The problem is, however, a very simple one. Given the value of GOULD'S nose, it is easy to find the value of the rest of him, especially as the problem is not complicated, as it would be in the case of another man, by the necessity of estimating the value of his soul.

Persons about to contuse GOULD will, however, observe that the figures above given are only estimated values, except so far as concerns his nose. That feature may be safely flattened at the price of $200; which, in view of the relief which may thus be gained by an impoverished but muscular Erie stockholder, must be considered extremely cheap. It is only by actual experiment, followed by subsequent appraisement in a court of justice, that the cost of blackening GOULD'S eye, or of taking liberties with other of his features, can be exactly ascertained. Nevertheless, it is not impossible that a judge more liberal than Justice SHANDLEY might place the value of GOULD'S features, with the exception of his nose, so low as to bring the simple pleasure of assaulting them within the reach of any poor but industrious person.

The Satisfaction of a Gentleman.

Next to slavery no Southern "institution" seemed to have been more effectually disposed of by the war than the practice of dueling. The sanguinary realities of that fierce struggle appear to have satiated the appetite of the most voracious fire-eater, and sobered the foolish vanity which mistook blustering for courage. Benevolent people congratulated themselves that "the twin relics of barbarism" had at last disappeared together. Doubtless the real old Southern gentleman may have secretly lamented the fine old days when a steady pistol hand was liberal education as well as a certificate to the possession of all the Christian virtues, and combined with a good knowledge of whisky, fitted a man to adorn any society. Yet he had discretion enough to recognize that the temper of the times had changed, and that hair triggers and bowie-knives were no longer accepted as infallible guarantees of character, culture, and good citizenship. Occasionally, indeed, the demands of honor, or the mere exuberance of a chivalric nature, made it necessary for one gentleman to perforate or carve another gentleman "at sight." But this was in an entirely informal and unpretentious way, and the proceeding bore about the same relation to the stately ceremonial of the "code" as a morning call to a full-dress reception.

For some time past, however, there have not been wanting signs of a desire to revive the vanished glories of the duello, and to restore to Southern gentlemen the privilege of shooting one another decently and according to rule. Within a week, in Mississippi and Virginia, two "affairs" have come off with great éclat and all the lavish expenditure of correspondence and gunpowder which marked the palmy days of Southern dueling. The first, though not strictly in accordance with established precedent, was perhaps for that reason all the more delightful, and must have afforded a great deal of the usual satisfaction to the participants and the spectators. The latter, in this case, embraced an entire town, for all their friends, with revolting insensibility to the claims of honor, unanimously declined to act as seconds. The two principals had the really brilliant inspiration of selecting as their battle-field a hill-top just outside of the town of Horn Lake. Here the delighted citizens "could see the fighters on the hill, and hear the loud conversation as they were preparing for the contest." The weapons selected were shot-guns, and Col. BOTELER had magnanimously loaded his with squirrel-shot, "having determined not to kill his opponent, but to cripple him by shooting him in the legs." Mr. McCLELLAND, we regret to say, "was not so considerate, as he rammed sixteen buckshot in each barrel."

The reader, we are sure, will rejoice to hear that magnanimity triumphed. A sufficient number of the good Colonel's squirrel-shot were safely and expeditiously lodged in Mr. McCLELLAND'S inconsiderate legs, while the latter's thirty-two perfidious buckshot wreaked themselves harmlessly on the surrounding atmosphere. Mr. McCLELLAND wished to resume hostilities, but on being informed of the squirrel-shot, and the more disagreeable probabilities of the buckshot which the Colonel threatened to use next time, paused to reflect and swear. This misled a number of "prominent citizens," who had been enjoying the sport from the town, into the error of supposing the battle ended. So they unadvisedly "ran up and stopped all further proceedings." Mr. McCLELLAND "is now suffering intensely," and has the further satisfaction of knowing that "in all probability he will have a stiff leg for life." It may be added as a further indication of the changed times poor duelists have fallen on, that both these heroes were arrested and taken before a Magistrate, but, says the local paper with delicious naïveté, "both had to be discharged, as there were no witnesses present."

These two gentlemen, as gentlemen will, "had quarreled over their cups." But Mr. PAGE McCARTHY and Mr. MORDECAI, of Richmond, had a much more romantic cause of dispute—the same that, ever since Helen, has been the causa teterrima belli. Mr. McCARTHY had caused to be printed an epigram on a "reigning belle," and Mr. MORDECAI had thereupon thrashed Mr. McCARTHY. Still the latter was not satisfied until navy revolvers had been called in to assuage his martial emotions. The battle that ensued was conducted with scrupulous adherence to the ancient formula, and was even more satisfactory than the Horn Lake skirmish. As a result, Mr. MORDECAI is not expected to survive, and Mr. McCARTHY carries a conical ball in his hip. Here, too, the principals were arrested just a moment too late, and bailed to answer on their recovery.

Now, is it too much to expect that these persons, or the survivor of them, together with their abettors, will be punished to the full extent of the law? Virginia, we believe, has enactments against dueling which it is time to see enforced. The public opinion of the country cannot permit a revival of this barbarous and savage custom. It is little more than half a century since in England the survivor of a fatal duel, though an army officer of high rank, was tried, convicted, and hanged for murder. Dueling, we need hardly say, went speedily out of fashion. The regimen was rough but wholesome, and doubtless saved a multitude of lives and much domestic misery. There are in our own country thousands of young men ready to be misled by the same false notions of honor into following the pernicious example of the McCarthys and the Mordecais. They would not follow if they knew it led to the prison or the scaffold.

MINOR TOPICS.

We suggest to Mr. CLARK BELL, counsel for G. F. TRAIN, Esq., that his client might find relief from his present intolerable position by application to the Grand Jury. If the application were made in proper form, and a tithe of the evidence to be obtained from newspaper men were procured, we think there is no doubt that under both the common and statute law, only one course would be open to the Grand Jury. It would have to indict TRAIN as a nuisance. Then we might get him abated in spite of himself.

A correspondent give a curious history, this morning, of a specimen of Albany legislation which has recently come to his notice. When a bill can be reported from a committee in a different form from the one directed by the committee, and when the same bill can be referred to a committee with instructions to strike out a portion of it, and can be reported in supposed conformity with instruction, but with the objectionable part still in, it is pretty plain that the safeguards supposed to exist in legislation are not worth much. This exposure is another proof of the necessity of the amendments to the constitution proposed by the late Commission.

Having come to the conclusion that B. F. CAMP, upon whom it relied so greatly to prove corruption in the Custom-house, is a "chronic dead-head," the Tribune took the liberty of saying so, and that individual has sued for $50,000 damages to his character. With the experience it has had with the article, the Tribune ought to know what a "chronic dead-head" is, and having said that CAMP is one, we presume it will now call upon the public to reject all the stories he told about the rascality of Federal office-holders as base coinage. This suit forcibly recalls the proverb concerning honest people getting their dues when certain other people disagree. It also raises the interesting inquiry whether JAY GOULD will put himself in the way of assault sufficiently to raise the amount necessary to pay the damages in case a jury finds CAMP'S character to be worth anything. By suing on civil process, instead of seeking redress through the criminal courts, GOULD might make his assaults yield a revenue equal to his advertisements and subscriptions.

Mr. VANDERBILT has actually undertaken to accommodate the people of Dobbs' Ferry and Tarrytown. The special trains which have hitherto run between New-York and Yonkers are hereafter to run to and from Tarrytown. It is suspected that the approaching opening of the new Montreal Railway has induced Mr. VANDERBILT to make this enormous sacrifice to the wishes of his riparian subjects. When does he intend to reduce the rates of commutation on his roads? At present the Yonkers commuter pays $114 annually for being carried nearly the same distance as the Flushing commuter, whom the North-side Railroad charges $65 per year. Of course Yonkers suffers by this parsimonious policy, while towns on railways more liberally managed rapidly grow in population and wealth.

A man who places a six-year-old lion in a wooden cage for transportation from one city to another, commits an act of recklessness which cannot be too severely condemned. A few days ago a wild beast of the age and species referred to was shipped from Towanda, Penn., for Trenton, N. J. Immediately after the train started, the lion began the work of drawing himself out, and persevered until he succeeded. Having obtained the freedom of the freight-car, he then searched around for some convenient spot to renew his labor and gain complete liberty. The trainer, who slept in an adjoining car, luckily had heard the noise of the gnashing, and by warning the employes of the railroad, prevented an escape upon the arrival at Trenton. Had the journey occupied a couple of hours longer, the animal would have overcome the second obstacle, in which event there is no knowing how many lives might have been sacrificed.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theatrical.

MISS NEILSON AS "AMY ROBSART."

A play, new to this country, was acted last night at Booth's Theatre. "Amy Robsart" is substantially founded on Scott's picturesque novel of Kenilworth has been acted a good deal in England, and is the work of Mr. Andrew Halliday. The drama was produced on this occasion to afford Miss Adelaide Neilson a vehicle for her metropolitan reappearance in the part of the heroine. An exceedingly full and enthusiastic house greeted the lady last night, and both actress and play must be set down in the popular sense as unequivocally successful. "Amy Robsart" has been warmly praised in London, we are told, and in some respects the praise seems to be fully warranted. It is, however, by no means without faults, and some of these are not of the kind in our day easily pardoned. The first act is unconscionably dull and talky. Leicester is made too egregious an ass, Varney too transparent a villain, and Amy Robsart herself too much of a termagant. Nor is all this necessary to the dramatic purpose. The dramatic purpose should include, if anything, intrinsic probability; and this Mr. Halliday treats in the most cavalier way imaginable. His idea seems to have been to string together as many historical events as possible, and he does so in a way often effective, but the thread is so frequently of the flimsiest possible stuff, and attention so often flags, through unlikely or puerile passages, that the interest is repeatedly broken, and, save for brilliant spectacular effects, would sometimes entirely vanish.

It is inconceivable, for example, and referring to the first act, that Leicester should sign the paper tendered him by Varney, without reading it, and that so subtle a person as Varney should suppose a clever girl like Amy could be imposed upon by so shallow a device. This is so obvious as to produce in the spectator ridicule, rather than sympathy, and the same remark is applicable to several other situations in the play. Of course we know that Leicester was weak and irresolute as well as vain and ambitious; but that such a preposterous ninny as Mr. Halliday makes him should win the favor of two women like Elizabeth and Amy Robsart is incredible. Varney's schemes, too, would be much more impressive were they not—in the current slang of the moment—so superlatively "thin." The language is, moreover, very stilted and melodramatic, and the actors, for the most part, as they usually do in such cases unless most potently entreated to the contrary, become stilted and melodramatic too. In fact, the play is wearisomely conventional. It affords room for some effective pictures, well-painted scenes, correct dresses and equipments, lively dances and imposing marches, and for some bits of historical suggestion agreeable and instructive enough; but "Amy Robsart" is not sufficiently strong as a literary work to live by its own merits; and, in the absence of a strikingly well-adapted figure for the heroine, would have, in our judgment, little chance for an extended tenure of acceptance on the stage.

As offered at Booth's this last-named deficiency, at least, is not to be deplored. Miss Neilson has the personal advantages to begin with, essential to the character of the ill-starred Amy, and she endows it, moreover, with abundance of fire and variety. Her success with the audience at such points as that which ends the first act is very marked indeed. There were three calls before the curtain at this juncture, and the public gave other hearty indications of delight. Still, the triumph was not of the sort we should prefer to see Miss Neilson obtain. It was achieved in too great a measure by physical force, by commonplace or stagy treatment of an obvious situation, and in too little by creative power, by subtlety of conception or individuality of handling. The delicacy that characterized much of the lady's Juliet was wanting here, and we could not but think that playing before mixed audiences in the provinces, has, unconsciously to herself perhaps, deteriorated Miss Neilson's style. It must not be thought, however, from these observations that the lady was not, and even in an uncommon degree, acceptable last night to the audience. She was, in fact, applauded to the very echo. But Miss Neilson is too discerning, we are sure, to take popular applause as the unerring test of artistic merit. Much as the applause that greeted her Amy Robsart was sometimes deserved, we have seen the lady set far less when more was richly merited. Some of her effects were nevertheless very fine indeed, and in an actress who merely aspired to the front rank in melodrama, instead of to the highest niche of juvenile tragedy, her embodiment of Amy Robsart could furnish occasion only for the warmest congratulation.

Miss Neilson's support last night was not unworthy of the drama, and in the cases of Mr. Bangs as Leicester, and Mr. Neil Warner as Varney, something more might even conscientiously be said. Leicester is, indeed, a milk-sop, and Varney mere Iago-and-water, and the gentlemen intrusted with their portraiture did not do them injustice. Miss Pateman took great pains with Queen Elizabeth—always an arduous character to attempt—and if not an ideal, was at least an inoffensive representative of the Virgin Queen. There are a few anachronisms of original speech and quotation sprinkled through the play, but these did not seem to be any less relished by the audience than the rest of the text, and so to dwell on them might seem hypercritical. The management have been most sedulous to mount "Amy Robsart" with taste, finish, and generosity, and in none of these points have they made a failure. As a mere pageant the drama has strong claims to support, and we doubt not that these will continue for some time to be recognized as fully as they were last night. Further than this, and as giving scope to a forcible essay in romantic acting by one of the most beautiful women, and one of the cleverest artists now on the stage, the play to most who see it will assuredly not prove a disappointment. "Amy Robsart" may be seen nightly at Booth's until further notice.

THE LYCEUM THEATRE.

We have reason to believe that the Lyceum Theatre, in Fourteenth-street, has been ceded, for the term of one year, to Mr. W. L. Mansell, well known as a manager in London, where opera-bouffe performances, gotten up with great magnificence, established his reputation for taste and liberality. Of the plans of the new lessee of the house we are not yet advised. Mr. Mansell, we understand, however, will not commence operations until September.

"THE PICNIC FUND."

The Charity Amateur Dramatic Association, which has already given two very successful performances for charitable purposes, have made arrangements to give a third for the benefit of the Poor Children's Picnic Fund. This will occur at the Union-square Theatre, to-morrow afternoon, when Tobin's comedy, of "The Honeymoon" and a farce will be acted. Tickets are to be had at the box-office of the house, and at most of the hotel and general ticket offices throughout the City.

RUBINSTEIN PIANO RECITALS.

Mr. Anton Rubinstein gave, at Steinway Hall, yesterday afternoon, the first of a series of piano recitals which we have already referred to as possessed of special interest for the student. The performance was largely attended, and it gave great satisfaction. It threw, however, no fresh light, if any were sought, upon the rare gifts and acquirements of the pianist. The numerous concerts in which Mr. Rubinstein has taken part have supplied all needed evidence as to his appreciation of almost all styles, and his ability to interpret from the most simple to the most intricate piano pieces. The present series of entertainments may increase the sentiment of wonder excited by the proofs offered the public of Mr. Rubinstein's astounding memory, but they can hardly swell the admiration entertained for a talent tested by a long list of tasks triumphantly executed. We printed in yesterday's paper the titles of the selections which made up the first programme. They were representative of J.S. and Philip Emmanuel Bach, Handel, Haydn, Scarlatti, and Mozart, and they constituted, it is only fair to say, a much more attractive bill than there was reason to expect. To the exquisite delivery of Mr. Rubinstein is, of course, to be attributed the charm with which the dryest of the numbers was fraught. The works of Haydn and Mozart are always welcome, but no ordinary rendering of the preludes and fugues from Bach's "Well-tempered Clavichord," and the formal airs and variations of Handel is necessary to transform these productions from models for study into the things of beauty they become under Mr. Rubinstein's touch. The excellent impression of the first recital removed every doubt as to the success of the remainder. The second occurs to-morrow, and is to have for subject six of Beethoven's sonatas.

CENTRAL PARK GARDEN.

We have only space to mention that the Central Park Garden will be opened to-morrow evening to the public, Mr. Thomas' superb orchestra constituting, as usual, the special attraction of the place. Mr. Thomas and his band were with us a very few days ago, and their achievements need scarcely be recalled to the recollection of the reader. The incidents of the opening night of the season will surely give us an opportunity, on Thursday, to allude with fresh pleasure to the performances of a force of musicians whose efforts are ever suggestive of hearty praise.

PERSONAL.

Signor Tamberlick, whose arrival from Havana we mentioned last week, is now in the City. We are sorry to say, however, that he is to depart for Europe on Saturday, without having afforded the public a taste of his quality. Signor Tamberlick possesses, with one of the finest tenor voices of the age—a voice compassing two octaves and including a C in alt of unrivaled power and roundness—talent as a singer and an actor of the highest order. It is much to be regretted that his late arrival has robbed Metropolitan audiences of an opportunity to enjoy the few performances we were led to expect of him, early in the season, and can only hope that he will return in the Fall in time to fulfill the anticipations his celebrity and the tidings of an intended appearance here have awakened.

MISS STERLING'S CONCERT.

Miss Antoinette Sterling's concert will be given at Irving Hall this evening. We trust the numerous admirers of Miss Sterling's voice and style will bear the fact in mind. If they do so, the entertainment will be largely attended.

BRIEF MENTION.

Mrs. Jenny Van Zandt goes to Rutland, Vt., immediately, to sing at the centennial celebration there. We are informed that the lady has received from Mme. Parepa-Rosa an offer, by Atlantic cable, to join her English opera troupe in September to make a tour of the United Kingdom.... Miss Minnie Hauck, in spite of her European successes, is anxious to return to the United States, and it is not impossible that next season may find her singing in New-York.... The young sister of Miss Adelaide Phillips, who is now studying in Italy, is likely to prove one of the brightest operatic stars America has yet had to boast. Her vocal and lyrical powers, both natural and acquired, are said, by good judges, to be of the highest order.

WASHINGTON.

An Aspiring Young Journalist in Trouble—The Russian Mission.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—B. F. Camp seems to have fallen out with his old Tribune associates. He to-day caused to be served on Whitelaw Reid, through his attorneys, Gen. B. F. Butler, and Messrs. Henkle & Arrick, of this city, a summons for libel, laying damages at $50,000. The alleged libel is said to be a recent article in the Tribune, in which allusion is alleged to be made to him, and he is styled "that typical old rascal, representing himself as chief editor of the Tribune," &c. The article further charges that by means of these representations he secures free quarters at the best hotels and passes over railroads, and such privileges.

Dispatch to the Associated Press.

Gen. B. F. Butler and Messrs. Hinkle & Arrick to-day entered a suit for Benjamin F. Camp against Whitelaw Reid for libel. The alleged libelous article in the New-York Tribune headed "Of Frauds and Free Passes," in which Camp's name is mentioned, is the foundation of the proceedings. The warrant of arrest, after citing the grievance with particularity, says that the calling him a "chronic dead-head" means the plaintiff was in the habit of going about the country representing that he was one of the chief editors, or writers, or correspondents of the Tribune, &c., and further meaning to charge that he was in the habit of resorting to all sorts of little and dishonest tricks and devices to obtain free board and lodging, free rides upon railroads, free admission to theatres, operas, concerts, and ferry-boats of the Union Ferry Company; and further, to charge that the plaintiff was a chronic dead-head, meaning thereby that the plaintiff lived by fraudulent and disreputable shifts and devices, and without paying for the necessaries and comforts and luxuries of life, as honest and honorable persons do, and the plaintiff claims $50,000 damages. The writ commands the defendant to appear on the first day of the special term of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia twenty days after service of the writ. An officer of the court this evening called on Mr. Reid, who acknowledged the service of the writ.

MINISTER ORR'S SUCCESSOR.

The appointment of Minister to Russia has been tendered to Judge Pierrepont, of New-York, in place of Mr. Orr, deceased. The acceptance has not yet been signified. It is uncertain when a successor to DeLong, as Minister to Japan, will be indicated.

In the Fifth Indiana District, the present Collector, William Gorse, is to be retained.

ALBANY.

Debate on the Bill to Settle the Cornell University School Land Scrip Account.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, May 12.—The evening session of the House was rendered remarkable by a speech from Mr. McGuire, of Schuyler, on a bill introduced by Mr. Husted, entitled: "An act to facilitate a settlement between the State of New-York and Ezra Cornell, in reference to the sale and location of the College land scrip." The bill itself is a short one, containing two sections, which read as follows:

SECTION 1. The Controller of the State of New-York is hereby authorized to receive from Ezra Cornell in legal transfer, in payment of his bonds now held by the Controller for the purchase of the college land scrip, and from the profits arising from the sale of lands located therewith any mortgages, bonds, contracts, or other securities which the said Cornell may receive in payment for the Cornell University lands located by him in Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Kansas when sold, if the same are approved by the trustees of the Cornell University as safe and desirable for the investment of the funds of the said university.

SEC. 2. Whenever it shall become necessary or desirable to make a final settlement with Ezra Cornell, in reference to those lands, and such settlement shall have been made between him and the Controller of the State, the said Cornell is hereby authorized to convey title to said lands, or any part thereof, to the Cornell University, which is hereby authorized to hold and sell and convey the same, subject to contract existing between the State of New-York and Ezra Cornell for the division of the profits arising from such land between the College Land Scrip Fund and the Cornell Endowment Fund, and the investment thereof.

When the bill came up in committee Mr. Rose, of St. Lawrence, moved to strike out the first section, for the purpose of obtaining information. Mr. Husted explained that it was to enable the State to effect a settlement with Mr. Ezra Cornell, in connection with his disposal of lands in the West, which were donated to the State for educational purposes by the United States. While he was speaking Mr. McGuire entered, and immediately on Mr. Husted's concluding, he rose and began a speech on the bill, which for the hour occupied in its delivery held the closest attention of the House. He began by explaining that in 1862 Congress passed a law donating to each State a large quantity of Western lands on certain conditions which the States had agreed to observe before they could assume possession. These were that the revenues to be derived from the sale or other disposition of the lands should be applied to the support of educational institutions in which agriculture and the mechanic arts should be the leading branches taught; secondly, that the funds referred to should be invested solely in bonds of the United States, State bonds, or other sound State securities. These conditions New-York agreed to. Mr. McGuire then passed on the establishment of Cornell University, saying that Ezra Cornell had, in 1865, secured to his university, which then had no existence except on paper, certain revenues to be derived from the location and disposition of these lands on the condition, as the act granting it stated, of first paying to the Genesee College $25,000, and furnishing to the Treasurer of the State a certificate that his university had a fund of $500,000. The $25,000 was paid, and two years after the Legislature was called upon to pass, and did pass, an act returning to Cornell University this identical sum. Mr. Ezra Cornell furnished a certificate that that institute had a fund as the act required, and this fund was $500,000 of watered Western Union Telegraph stock, not worth fifty cents on the dollar, which belonged to Mr. Cornell himself. Having thus secured the necessary control of the lands for the direct purpose of evading the requirements of the act of Congress, the Cornell endowment fund and the Cornell investment fund were created, by which moneys, which properly belonged to every institution in the State which complied with the requirements of the act, were to be diverted solely for the benefit of the Cornell University. Referring to Mr. Cornell's transaction in respect to the 1,000,000 acres of lands, Mr. McGuire charged that, under an agreement which Ezra Cornell had made with the Commissioners of the Land Office, the State could only claim sixty cents an acre for them, while their real value, as shown by Mr. Cornell's own statements, was twenty time that price, and the difference was to go into the pockets of a land company, which he had created, and of another, for the incorporation of which there is a bill now in the Senate. In addition, there were now 400,000 acres of white pine lands in the State of Wisconsin, which any timber merchant would purchase at $65 to $75 an acre, which had been contracted to be sold by Mr. Cornell to one John McGraw for the nominal sum of $5 an acre, this man being an associate of Mr. Cornell. The bill now under discussion proposes to require the State Controller to give up the bond which Cornell gave when he undertook the control of the lands for any mortgages, bonds, contracts, or other securities, which he may have made with parties in the West. Mr. McGuire made in substance the following charges: First, that the act of Congress had been violated in the investment of the moneys derived from these lands in any securities but those prescribed by the act; second, that Ezra Cornell had used, and was using, his position as the agent of the State in regard to these lands for the purposes of private speculation and worse; third, that he had presented no statement of his accounts for seven years; and fourth, that the act of Congress was violated in the fact that agriculture and the mechanic arts were not the leading branches of study at the university, but that only a pretense of them was kept up. In conclusion, Mr. McGuire reminded the Legislature that it was its duty as State trustees of this land scrip to see that a committee or commission was appointed. "Let them," he continued, "be appointed by the Governor—high-toned, honorable, and fearless men, to inquire into this matter, and see that this fund is sacredly kept for the purposes for which it was given, the education of the poor and struggling youth of the State, and not be made the football of speculators."

It is scarcely necessary to say that the feeling produced in the House by Mr. McGuire's speech was most profound. The high character of the speaker, his evident familiarity with the subject he dealt with, even to its details, and the care which he took to give his authority for every statement, made the strongest impression on his hearers. The House adjourned immediately on his conclusion, and the excitement was not in any degree allayed when it was seen that State Controller Hopkins had been present in the House, and it was eagerly repeated that he had declared if the bill passed he would carry the matter into the courts before Cornell's bond should be released.

THE NEW-YORK CITY AND COUNTY BILL.

The bill for the consolidation of New-York City and County will come up in the Senate to-morrow, and will undoubtedly be passed without trouble or delay.

GAS.

The bill introduced by Mr. Smith to forbid gas companies discriminating in their prices for the same quality of gas, passed the House on the 19th of April, and was sent to the Senate next day. There it was first referred to the Committee on Trade and Manufactures, Senator Lowery Chairman, but almost immediately recalled and given to the Committee on Cities, where it still remains. In the same omnivorous Committee is also swallowed up the larger Gas bill, fixing the standard of illuminating power. These were the only two bills referred to Senator Lowery's committee this session, and they were not allowed to consider them. Mr. Woodin insists that all bills of this character shall go to his committee.

The Parade of the Horse-Shoers.

The parade of the journeymen horse-shoers took place yesterday. There were contingents from Jersey City, Brooklyn, and Williamsburg. The whole column numbered about 200 men. Each society carried its distinctive flag, and was preceded by bands of music. The men wore white aprons, with a horse-shoe marked in the centre. The processionists rendesvoused at Milliman's Hall, Twenty-sixth-street and Seventh-avenue, and, after parading through the principal streets, returned to head-quarters and quietly dispersed. The Brooklyn horse-shoers struck yesterday for an advance of $1 per day.

Fairs in Churches—Discussion by the Protestant Episcopal Ministers.

A conference of the ministers of the Protestant Episcopal Church was held yesterday afternoon, at the Church of the Incarnation, corner of Madison-avenue and Thirty-fifth-street. Rev. Dr. Stowell presided. The paper under discussion was in reference to the holding of fairs in churches for charitable purposes. Rev. Dr. Cornwall opened the discussion, and in the course of his remarks said that it was the duty of churches to raise all the money they could in any legitimate way. Fairs, he said, were generally a failure in a financial aspect, and if the time and money which were expended in getting up a fair were spent in other ways, more good would be accomplished. He condemned the gambling in shape of lotteries, which were usually to be found in fairs, and said that the managers, professing Christians, sanctioned such things, which was the more deplorable. Gambling in the shape of lotteries was prohibited by all national governments in Christian countries, and certainly should be stopped at once as a means of obtaining money for church purposes.

Dr. Montgomery thought that fairs were not objectionable. He had recently given permission to the ladies of his church to hold a fair, and they netted over $900, which did a great deal of good. He gave three reasons why he was in favor of fairs: First—Because after the congregation had given all the money they could, they would probably purchase a few articles at a church fair. Second—Because of the social influence manifested at these gatherings. Third—Because they were profitable. Three years ago the sum of $55,000 was raised by means of a fair in aid of the Sheltering Arms, and it was pronounced a delightful reunion of members from the different congregations.

Rev. Mr. Creamer, Dr. Osgood, and Rev. E. Cowley then made brief addresses, they being in favor of the fairs in some instances and opposed on other points.

It was announced that the next subject would be "Church Music," the discussion to be opened by Rev. C. C. Adams, of St. Mark's Church.

The Sixteenth Assembly District Republican Association.

The Sixteenth Assembly District Republican Association met, last evening, in Demilt Hall, William H. Anthon in the chair. After the transaction of the regular routine business and the admission of forty-five new members, the following resolutions of respect to the memory of the late Chief Justice Chase were offered by Mr. R. M. Lush, and passed unanimously:

Resolved, That the members of the Sixteenth Assembly District Republican Association unite with their fellow-citizens in all parts of the country in the expression of their sincere and heartfelt sorrow upon the mournful occasion of the decease of Hon. Salmon P. Chase, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States. That we entertain a lively recollection of his eminent services in behalf of the great cause of human liberty, without distinction of creed or color; that we can never forget his grand course as Secretary of the Treasury when, by the almost magical influence of his powerful intellect, he produced order out of chaos, and placed the financial affairs of our country upon a secure and lasting basis; that we admire and revere the closing scenes of his eventful life, when, as Chief Justice of the United States, he kept the judicial ermine pure and untarnished, and amid the tearful regrets of a great nation, passed away, leaving behind him a bright example of a statesman without fear, and a judge without reproach.

In seconding the resolutions, Gen. Anthon paid an eloquent tribute to the many virtues of the late Chief Justice.

A resolution, offered by Mr. M. Cregan, approving the action of Mayor Havemeyer in nominating Hon. Wm. Laimbeer for the Presidency of the Commissioners of Charities and Correction, was passed, after which the meeting adjourned.

Yachting Notes.

At the meeting of the Atlantic Yacht Club, held last evening, there was a large number of members present, ex-Commodore Peet in the chair. After the usual routine business, the Regatta Committee reported that for the regatta on June 10 the same course for sailing and the same classification of yachts as at the regatta of last year would be observed. It was decided to hold the annual cruise early in August, the yacht fleet to rendezvous at Glen Cove on Aug. 2. After the election of several new members, the meeting adjourned.

The opening regatta of the Seawanaka Yacht Club will be held on July 4, the course being from Oyster Bay dock to and around Centre Island Buoy, thence to Eaton's Neck Buoy, and return, making a distance of twenty-five miles. The Atlantic Yacht Club will be invited to participate in the regatta, a special prize being provided for yachts belonging to that club.

The Columbia Yacht Club, at their last meeting, decided upon holding their annual regatta on the 12th of June, but as that is the day already set for the Union regatta of the Brooklyn Yacht Club, it is probable the Columbia Club will change theirs to the 26th. The Germania, a handsome cabin-sloop yacht, 37 feet long, built by Mr. W. H. Cornett for Mr. F. H. Herb, of the Columbia Yacht Club, is nearly ready for the water, in which she is expected to make a good record, and will prove a valuable addition to the club.

The Methodists and the Local Prohibition Bill.

At the meeting of the Methodist ministers, yesterday, the discussion of the temperance question was resumed, Hon. M. Cranford being the first speaker. He told of the methods adopted by the liquor-dealers to further their interests. They employ an eminent counsel to attend the Legislature and watch the measures introduced, and it is said they support him on an annual salary of $25,000. They, he said, must meet the dealers on the same ground, and make their influence felt in the next Legislature. He urged that they must have a common instrumentality, and must rally their forces to the State Temperance Society and give efficiency to that organization. A petition to Gov. Dix was adopted, praying him to sign the Local Prohibition bill.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Specimen of Albany Legislation.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

If the public cares to know just how the old acid, "skilled talent," works on the new alkali, reform, here is the brief sketch of the career of a nice little bill—the bill extending the Second-avenue Railroad—introduced by Senator Weismann in ignorance of its true bearings. As introduced, it extended the road over First-avenue from Eighty-sixth-street to Twenty-third-street, to the great damage of the Belt Road, now occupying that avenue. The Belt Road asked for a hearing before the Railroad Committee and barely got one, an attempt being made to rush the bill through which nearly succeeded. At this bearing it was distinctly agreed by Mr. Smith, the skilled and talented Superintendent of the Second-avenue Road, that the whole First-avenue extension should be stricken out. With this understanding the committee rose and without another hearing, Senator Madden reported an entirely different bill from the one agreed on, still extending the Second-avenue Road over nearly a mile of the Belt Road in First-avenue. Three out of five of the committee knew nothing whatever of this new modification, nor could their clerk tell with whom it originated. Senator Madden stated on the floor of the Senate that it was according to the agreement at the hearing. As Mr. Madden presided at that hearing, and all the arguments were addressed to him as Chairman, this extraordinary statement of his gave great surprise, and he was promptly waited upon regarding it, and formally notified by the Belt Road that it had never agreed to any such thing. He explained that, as to the terms of the compromise, he had taken the word of the skilled and talented Smith; and thus, without consulting the other side, without conference with three out of his four colleagues, without taking any measure to assure himself in the matter, had ordered a bill reported allowing the one company to do immense and irreparable damage to the other. At this interview, moreover, he was explicitly notified that Smith's statement was untrue, and that Smith himself had admitted as much, and that as the mistake was his, he was looked to to remedy it by, at least, securing the Belt Road a hearing against this new proposition to destroy their franchise. Nevertheless, he not only took no action toward remedying the injustice, but when the bill came up strongly advocated its passage as it stood, though the First-avenue clause was openly denounced as a "steal" by Senator Benedict, and by Senator Weismann himself, the honest but misled introducer of the bill.

The Senate, however, decided that the New York Senators knew more about New-York City railroads than Mr. Madden did, and ordered the bill back to the committee, with instructions to so strike out the "steal." The bill came back directly, of course, all engrossed and ready for passage. Senator Benedict, a shrewd old lawyer, who knows mistakes will happen, took a notion to examine the engrossed copy. By a curious fatality the "steal" was still there. This little error was promptly pounced on by the wary Senator, and with the certainty of his personal attention, the next copy came out "right as a trivet," and the bill went down to the Assembly minus the "steal."

Some would think the matter settled here. Little they know of "skilled talent." This last Thursday, after letting it lie nearly a month, the ingenuous Superintendent calmly moved before the Assembly Railroad Committee to reinsert the whole fine old original project, only with a mile and a half more of extension added. He had forgotten to ask the Belt Railroad people to be present.

Now suppose the Assembly reinstates the "steal," and in the hurry and rush of the last days, it comes back to the Senate, and a partisan of the bill moves to concur in the amendments, and no one has the time to look into it, and the motion prevails. How wonderful is skilled talent!

"I'll bet you one thing," said a Second-avenue stockholder to me in New-York, yesterday, "whatever we set out to do up in Albany, I'll bet goes through. It's the most sugar does it, every time."

Perhaps that stockholder struck the key-note of the story of this nice little bill. Anyhow, "the moral of this 'ere story lies in the application on it." R. F.

ALBANY, Saturday, May 10, 1873.

The Canard Concerning Gov. Dix.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your editorial paragraph this morning in reference to the report of the death of Gov. Dix, (a report which, according to your own columns, was "extensively circulated late in the afternoon," and had become "the property of the public," exciting inquiry everywhere, and leading to "the sending of scores of telegrams to Albany" without any reply being received,) you declare that the love of sensation was "heartlessly displayed" by a reference to it in the pulpits. I beg to assure your readers that as to the heartlessness, nothing could be farther from the truth, as, indeed, your own columns would indicate. I do not acknowledge your right to impute motives, as you do, when you ascribe the act to "love of sensation." While in the pulpit, a card was handed me, bearing the names of two gentlemen as long and favorably known in the City as the editor of THE TIMES, one of whom is connected with the Press, stating as a fact, and circumstantially, what it is a relief to the present writer to know was a fabrication by other parties. That card I read, not as circulating a rumor, but as reporting an event which, had it occurred, (and nothing before me tended to discredit it,) the notice taken of it was suitable and appropriate, and every way becoming citizens and Christians.

I am, Sir, yours faithfully,
J. HALL.

MONDAY, May 12, 1873.

[Dr. Hall unnecessarily appropriates a portion of our remarks of yesterday to himself, which were never intended to have any such direction.]

A Card From Mr. Garsia.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

A paragraph appeared in your Saturday's paper, under the heading of "A Consul General Arrested," in which it is stated that I had been arrested in an action brought by Nathaniel McKay, (of the late firm of McKay & Aldus, of Boston,) for about $11,000, received by me for their account from the Captain of a steam-ship built by them for a South American steam-ship company, which I had misappropriated. It was my first intention to make no response in the public prints to the charges preferred against me, but at the solicitation of my friends I beg to submit the true version of the affair. The claim is without foundation. In 1868 I was an accommodation acceptor for McKay & Aldus, under an agreement with them to keep me in funds to pay the acceptances. Certain of their drafts for moneys they professed to expect to receive upon account of building the ship in question, were not paid under their agreement. Not one farthing of the money they allege to have been sent to me on account of the ship, or of those acceptances, was ever received by me, and they know the fact. After they failed to meet the drafts, they became bankrupt, and in their schedule of claims made no statement either of liability on any such drafts or claims against me as acceptor. Subsequently, in 1871, McKay commenced an action in the Supreme Court upon the acceptances they failed to furnish me the money to pay. The civil suit was defended, and has not yet been tried. Mr. McKay will have abundant opportunity to prove anything in the slightest degree affecting my reputation, and to show, if he can, the truth of his allegations.

EDWIN C. B. GARSIA,
Consul General of Uruguay.

NEW-YORK, Monday, May 12, 1873.

Tarrytown Special Trains.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Will you permit me, "who knows whereof he affirms," to point out one or two errors in your editorial on Westchester County, in this morning's paper? The trains on the Hudson River Road heretofore known as the "Yonkers specials" are to be extended to Tarrytown, at the earnest request of the inhabitants of this village; but as the number of trains running into Forty-second-street is not to be lessened, the inhabitants of the villages between Yonkers and Tarrytown (including the latter) will have the choice of the Forty-second-street and Thirtieth-street routes, and of some twelve or thirteen additional trains each way—a privilege heretofore enjoyed only by those who were fortunate enough to abide in the City of Yonkers.

The time on the "specials" between Tarrytown and the Battery, via the Elevated Road, will not exceed one hour and a half—not very rapid transit, but an approach to it.

MONDAY, May 12, 1873. TARRYTOWN.

Eastern Branch Musical Sociable.

The Eastern Branch Young Men's Christian Association have just moved into new and large rooms at No. 692 Grand-street. Last night their handsome hall was crowded to excess, the occasion being the first of a series of musical and literary sociables. Miss Mary J. Vail, Mrs. Rogers, Miss Holstein, Miss Nellie Rogers, Messrs. W. H. Weeks and S. K. Earle, and Master Leidell interpreted a choice programme of vocal and instrumental music with good effect. Miss Wilbur, a talented elocutionist, gave several readings, and Prof. Hutchings added several of his wonderful feats of calculation. The affair was a great success.

THE DIX HOAX.

Feeling in the City Yesterday—The Originator of the Rumor Not Yet Discovered.

The cruel and malicious hoax which was so widely circulated throughout the City on Sunday, announcing the death of Gov. Dix, was the universal topic of conversation in the City yesterday. Innumerable theories were started and commented upon, as to who, or what, could have given rise to the mischievous report, but nothing like a definite conclusion was arrived at. It was, however, admitted by everybody that the rumor was skillfully gotten up and by the details given was well calculated to deceive the public, and the perpetrator of the hoax secured a greater success by his bungling method than probably would have been the case had the telegraph been resorted to.

A reporter of THE TIMES, after devoting the whole of yesterday to an endeavor to trace out the originator of the cruel rumor, was at last compelled to abandon the effort, owing to the apparent impossibility of arriving at anything like a positive conclusion. He first called upon Rev. Dr. Hall, who stated that he had been informed of the circumstance by two members of his congregation who had heard of it through Dr. E. D. G. Prime. Dr. Hall added that he had since been told that Dr. Prime had heard of the matter through Dr. Smith. The reporter made several ineffectual attempts to see both these gentlemen, as also Rev. Dr. Taylor. It appears, however, that the rumor must have been handed and bandied about from one to another, until it assumed the form of something like an authenticated fact, although, as has since been proved, it was a wanton piece of villainy. Had the individual who caused it circulation in the first instance been known in certain quarters yesterday, it is more than probable that serious consequences would have resulted to him. It was said by some that the rumor originated out of a joke passed upon one of the police justices by one of the many loungers round the courts on Sunday mornings, who is supposed to have in a jocular manner remarked that "his Honor was still safe to hold on in office, as Gov. Dix had died, and forgotten to sign the bill legislating the police justices out."

Had the matter been considered calmly for one moment, it would hardly have gained so large a belief, for of all diseases that are likely to attack the Governor, apoplexy, which was assigned to be the cause of death, is the last that would be thought of, considering his physique and constitution.

The denial of the rumor that appeared yesterday morning in THE TIMES was a great source of congratulation among citizens generally, their feeling being that at the present time the State could ill afford to suffer the taking away of its Chief Executive as represented in the person of Gov. Dix, who is considered to be so eminently fitted to carry out the work of reform.

College of the City of New-York.

In January last the Trustees of the College of the City of New-York applied to the Supervisors for the full amount of $150,000 granted by the Legislature, which they showed by figures was necessary for the support of the college, and which was cut down to $125,000 by the Board of Apportionment. The matter was referred to the Committee of Annual Taxes and Finance, who reported that the control of the amount granted did not come within the provision of the law creating the Board of Apportionment, but was vested exclusively in the trustees of the college. At the same time they recommended an inquiry into the necessities of the institution, with a view of recommending such changes as might be found practicable, to further the interests of the college. The same committee was appointed to make the inquiry; and the report before us contains the results of their investigations. The college, the committee says, is good—very good—and fully entitled to the liberal support of the people. But it should be kept good, and not allowed to become a field of operation for idle schemes, or an object of political manipulation. It reviews its origin, object, and history, shows the good it has accomplished, and its salutary effect upon the entire system of public education, of which it is the keystone and necessary complement. It explains what colleges are, and what this college in particular ought to be, and in doing so, it takes occasion to say some courteous words in reference to those by whose unremitting and well directed efforts the educational system of this City has been brought to its present state of perfection. It is not surprising, however, that the engrossing interests of business and the splendid achievements of science should have occasionally confused the views of some who, guided by zeal, rather than a clear knowledge of educational science, have at times proposed schemes which, if adopted, would have seriously impaired the usefulness of the institution; and then gives some delicate sketches, which every one will recognize as perfect resemblances of some notorious quacks belonging to the late "Ring" Board, at whose doings the strictures of the report seem in the main to be directed. The question of salaries is treated with great skill, and solved by a system of pro rata compensation, based on rank, experience, and responsibility, which, cutting off all sinecures and other unnecessary outlays, actually pays every one a little better, and makes an economy of nearly $12,000 in salaries alone. This is certainly a more satisfactory solution to the salary question than the one recently proposed in the Board of Education in reference to economy to be practiced in the grammar schools, and might be studied by the new members with great profit. On the whole, the report breathes throughout a spirit of well-considered liberality, but wants good work, and shows a thorough knowledge of the subject under consideration. "The work," it concludes in saying, "has been one of love, not of angry criticism. Much has been found to admire, and but little to condemn. If the committee have spoken frankly, it has been to facts and principle, and with the sole aim of securing a prosperous future to an institution on whose success so much else depends. Twenty-five years of sound experience will not be lost upon it, but enable it, on the contrary, to start anew, untrammeled and confident of undisturbed success under the auspices and direction of its new Board of Trustees, appointed by the Mayor under a recent act of the Legislature. They have entered upon the duties of their office since the conclusion of the investigation ordered by the Board of Supervisors, and the committee are confident that, after due consideration of the subject, their views and opinions will coincide with those of the report submitted." In behalf of the college, we heartily hope they will.

Mr. S. P. Avery's Collection.

We have heretofore called attention at some length to the remarkably fine collection of paintings belonging to Mr. Samuel P. Avery, on exhibition at the gallery, No. 625 Broadway. Mr. Avery did not intend to offer this collection at auction, but finds himself compelled to do so, the public preferring, we are sorry to hear, purchasing in this manner rather than at private sale. Among the artists represented in the collection are Gerome, Cabanel, Leys, Bouguereau, Hubner, Loagye, Gide, Carl Hoff, Wappers, Paul Delaroche, Lesrel, Boulanger, Desgoffe, Carl Hubner, Desbayes, Becker, Andreas Achenbach, Escosura, Ooms, W. T. Richards, W. C. Simpson, (of London,) J. M. Hart, Wm. Hunt, George H. Boughton, Kensett, and Homer Winslow.

Among the most striking works we notice a water-color by Baron Wappers, "Louis XVII. in Prison;" "Horace Reciting his Odes," by Heullant; Boulanger's "After the Bath;" Steinheil's "Student," one of the finest examples of Desgoffe that we have ever seen; "The Echoes of the Sea," by Bouguereau; Logye's "Margaret in Church," a very charming and artistic work; a sketch by Paul Delaroche; Ooms' "Flemish Pirates," full of strong painting and vigorous expression; Cabanel's "Ophelia," and a marine piece by W. T. Richards, one of the very finest he has yet executed.

The collection will be disposed of at the Somerville Gallery on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next.

Seizure of Smuggled Goods.

A large quantity of laces, kid gloves, silks, and cigars, concealed in trunks with false bottoms, was seized by Custom-house officers yesterday. The trunks had been examined by the officers in the northern part of Maine, and allowed to pass as all right, but the officers here were suspicious, and subjected them to a further examination, which brought at least $2,000 worth of smuggled goods to light. They were taken to the Seizure Department of the New-York Custom-house, yesterday.

New-York Association for the Preservation of Game.

The regular monthly meeting of the New-York Association for the Preservation of Game was held, last evening, at the residence of Mr. Clinton Gilbert, No. 20 West Tenth-street, Mr. R. B. Roosevelt presiding. Mr. Charles Whitehead, the Secretary of the organization, reported that in conformity with the resolutions passed at the previous meeting six of the pending suits had been settled by the defendants paying the costs, but that the other suits instituted by counsel were progressing. The case of Mr. Robert B. Noonsy, for having quail in his possession out of season, was ordered should be settled if defendant would pay $75, as a penalty for selling three birds to one of the members of the club, and also pay the cost of the court proceedings. The suits instituted by the club against three dealers in Albany have been progressed, and in the course of a few days will be contested, the defendants having declared their intention to test the constitutionality of the Game law under which they were summoned. Counsel reported that some broad-bill ducks had been found in the possession of Mr. Goss, of No. 251 Washington Market, and a pair of teals in the store of Drompam & Co., of the same market. On motion, it was resolved that suits should be commenced at once against these persons. It was stated that there is a bill now before the Legislature to modify the existing Deer law. This bill was drawn up by the country members of the House, and gives only two months in which to kill the deer, and two weeks afterward in which the venison must be consumed. It was resolved that Mr. Wagstaff, a member of the club, should wait upon the Senate committee, and suggest that the time for having venison in possession, after the close season commences, should be modified. Mr. Wagstaff having consented to do so, the meeting proceeded to the election of new members, whereupon Mr. W. F. Fleiss was balloted for and unanimously elected. The meeting then adjourned.

The New German-American Movement.

The following is sent to us by the officers of the United German-American Society:

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the United German-American Society, held at their office at Plimpton Building, on Monday at 5 P. M., the following was

Resolved, That immediate steps be taken to extend the organization and strengthen the movement of the United German-American Society throughout the country, and to enlist the support of all our fellow-citizens friendly to the movement.

At the same time, the Executive Board desire to return their most heartfelt thanks for the many expressions of sympathy and good will which the most eminent dignitaries of Church and State, and many of the most distinguished citizens throughout the country, have been pleased to bestow upon them, in consequence of the issue of their manifesto to the German Americans. They are happy to see that the lofty aim of the society has not been misunderstood, nor the meaning of its efforts misconstrued by those who not only profess, but really foster a true friendship for their German fellow-citizens, and who appreciate their desire "to be amalgamated into this wonderful nation of Americans; to profit by their qualities of heart and mind; to be imbued with that spirit of righteousness, tolerance, liberality, daring, shrewdness, generosity, and enterprise, the genial conglomerate of which forms the true American, and to become, not only in name and fact, but also in spirit and heart, true American citizens."

Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad.

At the rate the gold bonds of the Vermont division of the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad are selling, they afford a much better investment than Government bonds, and we believe they are as safe as real estate. The road is being built very economically; half of it is already in operation, and the rest nearly completed. These bonds make a home security, and the fact that the great house of Fairbanks & Co. are the selling agents gives double assurance of their safety.—Springfield Union, May 3.

DEATH IN THE BREAD.—There seems to be little doubt, if we can place confidence in the united testimony of analytical chemists and physiologists, that the use of ordinary bread made out of fine flour, is just about as injurious to the human system as alcohol, tobacco, tea, coffee, and the fascinating poisons which prevent us from living to the age of Methuselah.

We are told that in the various processes of preparation all the virtue is eliminated from the wheat, and only the injurious portions left. The Crushed White Wheat by F. E. Smith & Co., of the Atlantic Flour Mills, Brooklyn, is prepared on a different principle, the nitrogenous elements and every nutritious part being retained, as well as the carbonaceous matter. Its use is a certain preventive of dyspepsia.—Tribune.

Purgation and Prostration.

Let us rejoice that the absurd and paradoxical idea that sick people could be restored to health and strength by violent cathartic treatment, has been pretty generally exploded. If there are still to be found any medical dogmatists who believe such practice, the sooner their sands of life are run out the better it will be for their patients. A more rational mode of dealing with human ailments was inaugurated some twenty years ago when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters were introduced, and that powerful vegetable invigorant began its triumphant progress to universal popularity. The world now understands the importance of strengthening, refreshing, and regulating as well as purging the disordered system, and is aware that all these processes go on together under the fourfold operation of the Standard Restorative of the age. Prepare the system for the debilitating heat of Summer with this vitalizing specific.

FINANCIAL.

FOR INVESTMENT.

It is universally conceded that carefully-selected FIRST MORTGAGE RAILROAD BONDS are not only SAFE, but are the MOST DESIRABLE SECURITIES for investment purposes. It is also an established fact that there are fewer instances of default in the Railroad than in any other of the great interests of the country.

These facts have been accepted as applying to the securities of Railroads generally, but they apply with greatly increased force in cases where the Roads have superior advantages in location, management and connections.

The Indianapolis, Bloomington, and Western Railway possesses all the advantages here named, and has, in addition, a very large business already created and assured to it. The BONDS of this road now offered are GOLD, SEVEN PER CENT., CONVERTIBLE, are FULLY SECURED by a FIRST MORTGAGE on an extension of 217 miles, and are a liability of the entire line of 420 miles, of which four-fifths are completed.

The geographical position of the road is remarkably favorable. Commencing at Indianapolis its direction is west, and diverging at Champaign it has terminal points at Peoria on the Illinois River and on the Mississippi opposite Keokuk.

Net earnings of the division from Indianapolis to Pekin and Peoria are large, and have been for a considerable period greater than the amount required for interest on all bonds issued by the company. Regular trains are running on more than 100 miles of the extension, and total receipts of the road for this year must be very satisfactory to all holders of its securities.

The Earnings in 1872 were $1,359,690 55, an increase of $395,000 over 1871. It is expected they will reach $2,000,000 during the present year.

These Bonds have an INTRINSIC VALUE exceeding the present low price of 90 and INTEREST, and holders will find a POSITIVE ADVANTAGE in an early increase in the value of their investment Coupons January and July 1.

All NEGOTIABLE securities RECEIVED in exchange at best MARKET RATES.

Pamphlets, maps, and circulars furnished on application.

FINANCIAL.

TOLEDO, WABASH & WESTERN

RAILROAD COMPANY'S

7 Per Cent. Mortgage Bonds.

PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD COIN.

Issued for the Purchase of Steel Rails.

Principal Due 1893. Interest Coupons Payable 1st February and 1st August, in City of New-York.

The Directors of this Trunk Line, between Toledo and St. Louis, comprising with its branches over 600 miles of completed road, have decided, in order to accommodate the great increase of traffic, to relay the ENTIRE LINE WITH STEEL RAILS, and for that purpose have issued $5,000,000 of 7 per cent. Mortgage Gold Bonds.

The steady increase of business over this line will be rapidly and greatly augmented by its connection with the Canada Southern Railroad, (which will be open for traffic in a few weeks,) rendering the substitution of steel rails a necessity.

The net earnings for the years 1871 and 1872, after paying the interest on the Mortgage debt of the company, were largely in excess of the amount necessary to pay the interest on this Mortgage.

The road has no floating debt. All the proceeds of these Bonds go to the permanent improvement of the property, experience having proved that by substituting steel for iron rails on roads doing so heavy a traffic the "saving" alone, without any allowance for increase of business, is sufficient to pay off at least four times the amount of this Mortgage before maturity. The advantage of employing steel rails is so great that all our Trunk Lines are adopting them to the exclusion of iron ones.

As the Bonds will only be issued so fast as the rails can be laid, we now offer for sale but $1,000,000, AT NINETY AND ACCRUED INTEREST IN CURRENCY.

The large earnings of this Road, with its future prospects, make this Bond, in our opinion, an undoubted security.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

The Mayor's Nominations Laid Over—Organization of the Board of Supervisors—The City Hall.

The Board of Aldermen met at 1 P. M. yesterday. Mr. Vance in the chair, and the usual large and eagerly-expectant lobby being present.

Soon after the board had been called to order, Mr. Morris moved that the Mayor's nominations of William Laimbeer, James Bowen, and Myer Stern, for Commissioners of Charities and Correction, be taken from the file.

Mr. Van Schaick hoped he would be excused from voting. The Mayor had twenty days from the signing of the charter within which to make his nominations. Only twelve days had elapsed, and he thought it would be more dignified if the board, instead of acting in haste, laid the nominations over for one week.

Mr. McCafferty made a motion to adjourn, which was lost, and Mr. Morris' motion was then put and lost by the following vote:

Affirmative—Vance, Billings, Faulkner, Monheimer, Morris, and Ottendorfer.

Negative—Cooper, Flannagan, Kehr, Koch, Lysaght, McCafferty, Reilly, and Van Schaick.

Motions to adjourn to different days were made and lost, the vote being the same as above on every motion.

Mr. Van Schaick said he wished to explain that he had personally no objections to the names sent in by the Mayor. For Messrs. Laimbeer and Bowen he would vote, if he were the only man in the board that did so. Persons, he said, had been running round town and spreading ridiculous reports that the Mayor had said, if these nominations were not confirmed to-day, the Aldermen would not be considered in any future nominations he might make. Of course, he did not believe any of these rumors, but he wished to call them to the attention of the board.

Mr. Billings said he objected to an adjournment for the reason that there was a good deal of business before the board. If the names presented were good, it was the duty of the board to confirm them. He could find nothing himself against the gentlemen nominated as Commissioners of Charities and Correction, and he was ready to vote on them at once. It had been stated outside that all the nominations made had been submitted to certain members of the board before being sent in. This was not true. The Mayor had consulted him in regard to one man whose name had been submitted to the Mayor, and this man had not been nominated.

Mr. Monheimer moved that the board take a recess until 5 P. M., which was lost.

Mr. Morris offered a resolution to take up and confirm the Mayor's nominations of City Marshals, which was lost by a tie vote of 7 to 7, Mr. Cooper voting with the Republicans.

Mr. Cooper offered a resolution that the Committee on Law be instructed to inquire as to the full purport of the Warehouse and Railroad bill now before the Legislature, which contemplates the giving away of a large quantity of City property without the City receiving any adequate compensation therefor.

It was adopted, as was also a resolution by Mr. Cooper, requesting Gov. Dix to sign the bill for the annexation of the towns of Kingsbridge, West Farms, and Morrisania to New-York.

Mr. Van Schaick asked whether the City Record had yet been established.

Mr. Vance said he had no official information of the fact, and that resolutions appropriating money would not be valid unless advertised in the Record.

The board shortly afterward adjourned for one week.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors met at 3 P. M. yesterday, Mr. Vance in the chair.

Mr. Kehr offered a resolution that Mr. Ottendorfer be elected temporary Chairman of the board, which was adopted.

Mr. Cooper offered a resolution appointing Joseph C. Pinckney clerk of the board, which was laid over.

A communication was read from Mr. Joseph B. Young, former clerk of the board, protesting against the board appointing any one to supersede him until he was legally and constitutionally removed.

Mr. Cooper said that, on examining the statute under which Mr. Young claimed to act as clerk, he was convinced that it was invalid. This board, on the 1st of January, was fully entitled to elect a clerk in place of Mr. Young, but the matter had been allowed to lie over. He would therefore renew his resolution to elect Mr. Pinckney clerk of the board.

Mr. Van Schaick moved to amend by adding the words "in place of Joseph B. Young, removed."

The resolution, as amended, was adopted, Mr. Flanagan alone voting in the negative.

A committee of three was appointed to revise the rules of the board.

Mr. Morris then moved that Mr. Vance be elected President of the board.

Mr. Flanagan moved that Mr. Cooper be elected President.

Mr. Cooper declined the honor.

Mr. Kehr moved to lay both motions on the table, which was adopted by a vote of 7 to 6.

The Board then adjourned to Thursday next at 3½ o'clock P. M.

The City Hall.

Rumors were current round the City Hall during yesterday morning that the members of the Board of Aldermen had formed a combination against the Mayor's nominations, and that they would not be confirmed, two of the German members of the board having gone over to the Democrats. The first vote taken yesterday showed the truth of the rumor, and evidenced the fact that a change of sentiment had taken place since the last meeting of the board. The real cause of this is not very hard to determine, though several of the members, after the Board had adjourned, gave divers different reasons for their action. One gentleman said that he considered the Mayor insulted the board by sending in his nominations piecemeal. He thought the proper and only way was for him to send them in altogether, for the board to lay them over for a reasonable time, and then to confirm or reject them. This objection, it appears, had not occurred to the gentleman when he voted to confirm the first nominations sent in. Other members declared that they simply wanted time to consider the nominations, and that at the next meeting of the board they would in all probability vote for them. The general opinion around the Hall appeared to be that the majority of the Aldermen were disappointed by not finding any of their men among the partial list of City Marshals sent in, and that they will not vote to confirm any nominations until this list is completed. The Mayor took the matter, as usual, quite coolly, and declined to express any opinion on the subject.

The newly-appointed Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, Messrs. Wheeler, Andrews, and Moulton, took possession of their office yesterday morning. Mr. Wheeler having been appointed President, no further organization was necessary. No change will be made at present in the clerical force of the office, though it is fully intended to dispense with the services of some of the employes and cut down expenses generally.

The Board of Assistant Aldermen, yesterday, appointed a special committee to investigate the charges made against the clerks of the board of receiving fees for signing permits for street-stands, &c.

The provision in the charter appointing a Corporation paper, to be called the City Record, and providing for the publication of all official notices and documents therein, is likely to cause some trouble and delay in the transaction of Municipal business. The City Register, it appears, cannot be used temporarily as the City Record, and an advertisement will have to be inserted for twenty days in the four leading dailies for bids for publishing a City Record. In the meantime no business requiring money appropriations can be transacted by the Common Council.

Suicide of John C. Dimmick.

Mr. John C. Dimmick, formerly a member of the law firm of Dimmick & Perry, of this City, left here on Thursday for Bloomingburg, Sullivan County, N. Y. He remained at the hotel in that town until Saturday morning, when he left, stating that he would return to New-York in the afternoon. On Sunday morning his dead body was discovered at his unoccupied residence, Bloomingburg. The body was dressed in the same manner as when Mr. Dimmick had left the hotel. A bullet-hole was in the right temple, and an examination showed the ball had lodged in the opposite side of the skull. A revolver was clutched in the hand, one chamber of the weapon being empty. When the body was discovered, life had been extinct about twenty-four hours. A note was found containing directions for his interment. The general supposition seems to be that the act was caused by great mental depression, resulting from an aggravated attack of dyspepsia.

Mr. Dimmick practiced law in this City for the last twenty years, previously practicing in Poughkeepsie, Middletown, and in Bloomingburg, his native place. He was much estimated by a large circle of acquaintances, and had a reputation as a lawyer for great probity of character. His special business was large and of a lucrative character, and he was generally supposed to be possessed of considerable wealth. The news of his suicide awakened a feeling of great surprise and interest among the members of the New-York Bar, very many of whom have had pleasant business or social relations with him. The deceased was fifty-four years old at the time of his death, and leaves a widow and two children. The funeral will take place from the North-street Presbyterian Church, Middletown, N. Y., on the 13th instant, at 2 P. M. The remains will be interred in the Hillside Cemetery.

GEORGE FRANCIS TRAIN.

Motion to Quash the Indictment Against Him Denied.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Judge Davis, yesterday, George Francis Train, addressing the Court, said that he had received notice five minutes ago to appear in court. Five months ago he had three times pleaded guilty to an indictment, but his plea was refused and a plea of not guilty interposed by the Court. He had been in the Tombs for five months as a pauper, and he demanded of the District Attorney how long he was to be kept there without a trial. Mr. Train was going on in a very excited manner, claiming that his rights as a citizen had been outraged, when the Court called him to order, and he sat down, remarking emphatically that if the Court had been confined in cell No. 56 for five months he would feel outraged too.

Mr. Clark Bell, Train's counsel, read to the Court an affidavit made by his client, to the effect that he had been committed to the Tombs five months ago, that efforts had been made to prove him insane by Drs. Cross and Hammond, privately sent for the purpose; that he believes that Mr. Phelps and his associates think him insane, and that he believes that there is not more than a remote chance of his conviction. He therefore asked that a writ of nolle prosequi be entered and the discharge of the prisoner ordered.

Judge Davis replied that the Court had no power to order a discharge. The District Attorney might move it. The whole matter was in his hands.

Mr. Bell insisted that the Court could indicate that such a writ should be issued, but Judge Davis again replied that all the power the Court had was to direct the discharge of the prisoner on his own recognizance if he were kept in jail awaiting trial an unreasonable time.

Mr. Train exclaimed in a theatrical manner that he had refused to give his recognizance, because Woodhull and Claflin were under $10,000 bail for the same offense, and it was an outrage. Here Mr. Train was getting more and more excited, when Judge Davis used his gavel and compelled him to be silent, quietly remarking to Mr. Bell, "If your client has refused to give his own recognizance and obtain his release, as a matter of course he can't complain of his imprisonment." [Laughter.]

Mr. Phelps offered to reply to Mr. Bell if his Honor thought it necessary, but Judge Davis did not think so. Mr. Phelps said that the jury, having declared Mr. Train sane, his trial would now be proceeded with.

In answer to a remark of Mr. Bell, the Judge said that that verdict was no bar to the introduction of evidence of unsoundness of mind at the time the offense was committed. "Bring me evidence of insanity at the present time," he said to Mr. Train's counsel, "and I will send him at once to a lunatic asylum," at which there was a general laugh, and Mr. Train grew very red in the face.

Mr. Bell then formally moved to quash the indictment, on the ground that it did not specify any particular number of Train's publication as being obscene, and as not charging any offense within the meaning of the statute. Counsel claimed that there was nothing obscene in Mr. Train's commentaries on the Bible.

Judge Davis refused the motion, and the Court soon after adjourned until to-day.

OYER AND TERMINER.

Important Charge of Judge Davis to the Grand Jury.

At the reopening of the Oyer and Terminer Court, yesterday morning, for the business of the May term, Judge Davis occupied the bench. The announcement that the Tweed cases were to be called, and the summoning of the petit jurors, caused the room to be crowded. The two sons of Tweed were present. Ex-Judge Fullerton, David Dudley Field, the Messrs. Bartlett, and Mr. Peckham, of counsel in the Tweed case, were in court, and George Francis Train and his counsel were also within the inclosure. After the list of Grand Jurors impaneled for the term had been called, and some had been excused from serving, the following jurors were sworn: Charles Partridge, foreman; Samuel W. Millbank, Edgar Wright, Francis Endicott, Samuel E. Sproules, Wm. L. Vandervoort, Sylvester W. Comstock, Wm. Clarkson, James T. Tailer, James A. Hearn, Wm. Blair, Jr., Courtland V. Schuyler, Frederick Marx, Theodore Martine, Edward D. Saxton, Jesse Oakley, George Hurst, Wm. S. Corwin, Henry M. Tober, Elisha Brooks, Edward T. Swelling, Jonathan L. Hyde.

In charging the jurors, Judge Davis called their attention to the following matters: To the offense of extortion committed by municipal officers who exact illegal fees; to the Usury laws, telling them that they were to enforce the laws as they found them, not to make them or amend them, and that to constitute the crime of infringing this law, not only must a contract be made for a higher rate of interest than seven per cent., but the higher rate must actually be paid and received. He spoke of the Election laws, and said that their action was the only way of protecting the ballot-box and the purity of franchise. He called their attention to the Lottery laws, presuming, from what he had been told, that they were not enforced, as lotteries are every day set on foot and arranged so that the drawings take place in other cities. He alluded to the Excise laws, and the laws to prevent frauds on emigrants in the sale of railroad and steam-boat tickets, and reminded them of the importance of their duties in a great City like New-York, and told them that they had a right to investigate any violation of the laws of which any of their number knew, the District Attorney being bound to aid them. We had now, he said, a class of municipal officers, all or nearly all of whom were earnestly enlisted in restoring to the administration of the laws, and municipal and county affairs, economy, purity, integrity, and justice; but without the aid of the Grand Jury this could not be completely done. He had been told that it had not been uncommon in the past to commit frauds on the Treasury by the presentation of false pay-rolls, containing the names either of fictitious persons, or of those who have performed no service such as that represented, and that large amounts had thus been taken from the Treasury when no service had been performed and no property delivered. When these pay-rolls had been presented under oath the crime of perjury had also been committed, and in all such cases felony had been committed, by obtaining money by false tokens. Possibly complaints of this nature would be brought before them. The duty of the grand inquest would be to aid the public officers in their efforts to protect the City Treasury against such plunderers. They should not hesitate to find indictments not only to punish the offender, but to aid by public example the administration of public affairs, to restore to them purity and honesty. There was no reason why the same honesty, purity, and integrity should not characterize public affairs as they did the private business of any private citizen. There was some difference between public and private affairs, but only in magnitude, and in the fact that the municipality acts through servants, while in private the owner was himself at the head of his own business. There was no other reason why the same economy and integrity should not attach to public offices as those of great merchants and business men. Without the assistance of the Grand Jury the persons offending could not be reached, and he again reminded them that they could institute investigations.

The members of the Grand Jury then retired for deliberation.

A Broker Arrested—He is Held in Default of Bail.

Yesterday afternoon Albert H. Nicolay, an auctioneer and stock broker, of No. 43 Pine-street, was arrested by Judson Jarvis, charged with having defrauded William S. Roberts of $29,000. The particulars of the alleged fraud on Mr. Roberts, who is seventy-eight years of age, are decidedly interesting. It appears from the affidavit that on Aug. 25, 1869, Nicolay sold Roberts eight mortgage bonds which had professedly been issued by the West Elevated Railroad, and which were alleged to be worth $560 each, and said to be well secured. Roberts paid Nicolay $3,200 for them, and found them to be worthless.

On Sept. 26, 1870, Nicolay sold Roberts eighteen bonds of the St. Margaret Copper Mining Company for $7,200, stating that they were better bonds than the Cairo and Illinois ones which Roberts then held. The copper mining stock turned out to be valueless.

On July 20, 1871, Nicolay showed, as alleged in the affidavit, Roberts a number of specimens of silver ore, and then sold him 400 shares of the Algona Silver Mining Company's stock for $10,000, alleging that the stock was worth $50 a share, but Roberts might have it, on the ground of friendship, at $25 a share. This stock was also found to be worthless.

On Oct. 25, 1871, Nicolay sold Roberts fifty shares of capital stock of the Lima Gas-light Company for $4,500, alleging that the nominal value was $100 a share. Roberts claims that all the stocks sold him are either worthless in themselves or represent bogus companies, got up for the purpose of swindling.

Nicolay was committed to jail, in default of $30,000 bail.

EAST RIVER BRIDGE.

Report of the Committee—Vindication of the Management—Action of the Brooklyn Common Council.

At the weekly meeting of the Brooklyn Common Council, yesterday afternoon, Alderman Ropes, Chairman of the special committee appointed to investigate the affairs of the East River Bridge Company, submitted an exhaustive report, a brief synopsis of which has already appeared in THE TIMES. After reviewing the evidence at great length, the committee declare that no evidence of fraud has been discovered, but, on the contrary, the strictest economy has been practiced with the funds, unless the sum of $125,000, paid as compensation to Mr. Kingsley, be taken as an exception; but on this point the committee express no decided opinion. The committee was appointed on Jan. 6, and have since then examined Controller Schroeder, Messrs. John H. Prentice, Treasurer; Orestes P. Quintard, Secretary and Book-keeper; Hon. Demas Barnes, Director; William A. Roebling, Chief Engineer; Hon. J. S. T. Stranahan, Director; Devine Burtis, Contractor; Hon. Henry C. Murphy, President; Wm. C. Kingsley, Superintendent, and Courtlandt P. Dixon, unsuccessful bidder for granite for the bridge, and contractor for the New-York Post-office. From the testimony of these witnesses, the conclusions of the committee may be summarized by the following extract from the report:

An examination by your committee of the pay-rolls of the company shows the list of salaried officers to consist of a general superintendent, salary $10,000 per annum; chief engineer, $10,000; four assistant engineers, with salaries, $5,000, $4,000, $3,000, and $1,500, respectively; two draughtsmen, $2,280 each; a treasurer at $4,000; secretary, book-keeper, and paymaster, $3,000; and one clerk at $1,000. Total number of salaried officers, eleven. The number of mechanics employed at this time is eighty-nine, with wages ranging from $4 to $5 per day of ten hours. The number of day-laborers employed is 204, at wages from $1 75 to $2 25 per day of ten hours. The yearly rent of the offices used by the Bridge Company is $3,000. With this statement the record of the investigation of your committee closes.

Grave suspicions undoubtedly existed, perhaps exist to-day, in the minds of some persons respecting the management of the funds provided by this city for the construction of the East River Bridge, but the evidence given to your committee does not, in their opinion, justify a longer continuance of these suspicions.

If, as the preamble asserts, "the Directors of the Bridge Company, in their attempt to investigate their own officers, failed to satisfy the just demands of the public," then your committee trust that that failure may be overcome and all doubts removed by the report which they now make, that, after an exhaustive investigation, there appears no evidence of fraud, and that all the evidence points clearly to an economical management of the funds of the company, unless the $125,000 paid Mr. Wm. C. Kingsley for salary as general superintendent shall be regarded as an exception.

As announced in the beginning of this report, no pains have been spared by your committee to reach the sources of information, and the united testimony is that the duties of all officers have been faithfully executed; that all the materials used in construction are of the best quality; that the prices paid for such materials have been uniformly favorable to the corporation; that prepared specifications with a view to a contract for masonry, which, if adopted, would have proved very expensive, were set aside, and that the bridge at this time, in quality of material, in solidity of construction, and the cost of the same, fully justifies the assertion that the requirements of faithfully performed public enterprises have seldom, if ever, been more fully complied with. There is no evidence that any money has been paid, directly or indirectly, by any person or persons connected with the Bridge Company in any capacity to secure the requisite legislation at Washington, Albany, New-York, or Brooklyn, for the establishing of and the necessary pecuniary aid to the enterprise.

The measurement of the material—a point to which the attention of your committee was called by one of the witnesses as affording an opportunity for the exercise of fraud—was not entered upon, because, in our opinion, the statements of Engineer Roebling, in view of his well-known character for ability and integrity, rendered it unnecessary. His statement that to defraud in measurement would require a collusion of parties to an extent that could not be formed successfully, seems sufficient; but, in addition to that, he has provided a system of checks on the measurement and quality of all materials used in construction, also plans indicating the point of deposit of the same in the structure, so thorough in their arrangement and special in their detail, that he alone can give correct information of the exact measurement of all materials used.

To any other person, measuring the surface of the work, the result would show a much larger percentage of stone than the vouchers would call for, because of joints in the masonry and deposits of concrete, of which no note exists elsewhere but in the minutes of the engineer.

The compensation paid to Mr. W. C. Kingsley seems to be the only act pertaining to the expenditures of money which is open to criticism, and this only as to the amount. There is no charge, we believe, on the part of any one, that the act is fraudulent. That the Executive Committee considered the original agreement to pay Mr. Kingsley fifteen per cent. on the cost of construction of the towers to high-water mark—a mistake is clearly apparent in their efforts to overcome it—that they succeeded in doing so is due, not solely to their own efforts, but to the relinquishment by Mr. Kingsley of the sum of $200,000 which had been voted him by the deliberate act of the committee, and by which act the stockholders were bound.

Your committee are not called upon to pass judgment upon the reasonableness of the sum finally paid Mr. Kingsley. His claims to the same, and the arguments offered by the Executive Committee in justification of their act, are in evidence before the Common Council. The $125,000 covered, it is claimed, a period of five years' services in the interest of the bridge, nearly three of which were years of active service in the work of construction. Mr. Kingsley still retains the office of Superintendent at a yearly salary of $10,000.

In closing this report, your committee feel it incumbent upon them to call the attention of the Common Council to what they deem a lack of proper protection of the interests of the city in the charter of the Bridge Company. In joint stock corporations the directors usually are chosen by a stock vote; not so in this instance, the act of incorporation being so drawn that the private stockholders, whose subscriptions, amounting to but ten per cent. of the entire capital at this time, choose the Board of Directors, while the City of Brooklyn, the subscribers at this time of three-fifths of the capital, has no vote in the election of directors, being merely represented in the councils of the corporation by three ex officio members. In other words, the holder or holders of $251,000 in stock control at will the entire capital of the company, amounting to-day to $5,000,000. That this power has not been misused in the past management of the affairs of the company is no argument for its continuance. It is, in the opinion of your committee, unwise, if not dangerous, and the claims of the City to a larger and more direct representation should be insisted upon. Neither does the charter contain any provisions authorizing any proceedings against delinquent stockholders, the over due payments from which at this time amount to twenty-eight per cent. of the sum called for. The charter provides that the percentage of the subscription called for is payable simultaneously from private and public stockholders, yet the representatives of the cities have waived the right to question the non-payment by private stockholders, and met the percentage called for, that the work of construction might proceed uninterrupted.

Your committee are informed that an amendment to the charter, having for its object the forfeiture of stock of delinquent stockholders, and an increased representation of the City in the Board of Directors, is now being discussed by the directors of the Bridge company.

It is to be hoped that wise counsels will prevail, and the reasonable demands of the representatives of the city be met, in order that a work believed by your committee to be essentially important to the immediate welfare and the future prosperity of Brooklyn may go on uninterrupted to completion; but your committee are of the opinion that the rights of the city, as entertained by its representatives in the councils of the Bridge Company, should be pressed at all hazards, and secured by proper amendment of the charter, and with a view to their support, offer for adoption the following resolution:

Resolved, That the representatives of the city in the Board of Directors of the New-York Bridge Company be and they are hereby directed to originate or support in such form or manner as they may deem expedient any or all measures having for their object the better protection or larger representation of the interests of the city in said company.

RIPLEY ROPES,
THOMAS H. RODMAN,
JOHN McGROARTY.

BROOKLYN, May 12.

Alderman Wylie then read his minority report, which was nearly as exhaustive as that of the majority. He commenced with an assertion that the investigation had not been thorough or searching, but only one-sided; that it had been summarily closed, and that the witnesses were all either connected with the company or under obligations to the managers for contract or position. He also insinuated that a motive was underlying the report of the majority, and claimed that there were bidders who could not get contracts fairly, and that the committee would not adopt his suggestion of summoning these and others to testify. He also asserted that the books of the company had not been found correct; that the expenditures had been so far in excess of the original estimates that a rigid inquiry was necessary. The estimates for the entire work was much higher now than formerly, and there could be no limit to the cost under the present rate of expenditure. In conclusion, Alderman Wylie offered for adoption a series of resolutions directing the Controller not to issue any more bonds to the Bridge Company until all private stockholders have paid in an equal percentage with the City of Brooklyn; also requesting the Legislature so to amend the charter of the Bridge Company that no member shall contract for any of the work, and requiring advertisements for bids for all supplies exceeding $5,000. A supplementary resolution also set forth that, in the judgment of the Common Council, the affairs of the bridge-enterprise demand a more searching examination than has been made.

In replying, Alderman Ropes showed that Alderman Wylie was appointed on the committee after denouncing the bridge management as corrupt; that he failed to attend on two important occasions, and lamentably failed to support any of his accusations against the Bridge Company. The committee had adopted all of his suggestions, but he had really suggested no names of witnesses.

Alderman Rodman spoke to similar effect, declaring that every means of investigation had been exhausted. A New-York daily paper, growing of a sudden prematurely wise on Brooklyn affairs, had asserted that Alderman Wylie had not been allowed to hear the majority report, but this, said Alderman Ropes, is absolutely untrue. Alderman Wylie also stated that there was no foundation for the statement.

After addresses from Aldermen Richardson and Taylor, the question of adopting the majority report was put and carried by a vote of 20 to 1, Alderman Wylie alone voting in the negative.

The thanks of the Common Council were tendered the committee, and Alderman Richardson offered and had adopted a series of resolutions setting forth that, since to be popular the bridge should be free, therefore the members of the Legislature were requested to legislate so as to retire all stockholders on equitable terms, and place the enterprise in charge of official directors.

THE TWEED CASES.

Tweed to Plead to the Indictments of Last February To-Morrow.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer, yesterday, after the new Grand Jury had been charged and had retired, Judge Davis asked the District-Attorney if he had any business for the Court, upon which Mr. Phelps answered that he had the case of Wm. M. Tweed, on the indictments of the 11th of February. After waiting for a few moments, David Dudley Field, who was engaged in another court, came into the room. He stated to the Court that he was in the midst of an argument before Judge Van Voorst, before he heard of the case of Tweed being called, and it was the practice, when once a case was commenced, before receiving notice of another, to continue the first. He should ask time to consider, in respect to the pleas, and various matters in regard to the indictments. Mr. Tweed was regularly assailed with indictments by every Grand Jury. Here are fifteen new ones, said he, and we are coolly told—"Oh! all you have to do is to come and plead." I throw myself on the rules of practice, and ask for a postponement.

Mr. Peckham said that he was also situated substantially as Mr. Field, being understood to say that he had two other cases on, upon which Mr. Field remarked that he must be a greater man than Cæsar, to speak in three courts at once.

Judge Davis said that he could see no reason why the Court should be kept waiting, because one of the counsel had an engagement. There were several counsel in the case, and if one could not be present his associate could. He was willing to postpone until this morning.

Mr. Field then proposed that the case should not go on until Tuesday week, not Monday, because he was "always in the country on Monday." After some further discussion between counsel it was finally agreed that the pleas to the indictments are to be disposed of at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

The Murderer Nixon.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, Mr. Ab. H. Hummel applied to Judge Fancher for a writ of error in the case of Michael Nixon. The Judge held that the application must be made after notice to the District Attorney. Mr. Hummel gave the required notice yesterday afternoon, and will renew the motion to-day. If the writ is granted the case may be argued at General Term on Wednesday.

Death by Drowning.

Mary Dobbins, eight years old, of No. 506 Greenwich-street, and Mary E. Connelly, daughter of the Captain of a barge lying at Pier No. 42 North River, were playing on the barge last evening, and fell overboard. The little girl Dobbins, when taken out of the water by James O'Brien, of No. 40 West-street, was found to be dead, and her body was taken to her parent's residence and Coroner Young notified. Miss Connelly was also rescued and is doing well.

HONEST TESTIMONY.

WHAT HON. GEO. STARR HAS TO SAY OF

RADWAY'S READY RELIEF.

A LETTER WORTH READING.

NO. 3 VAN NESS-PLACE,
NEW-YORK, Jan. 2, 1873.

Dr. Radway:

DEAR SIR: Impelled by a sense of gratitude on my own part, as well as kindly feeling toward others who may be so unfortunate to suffer as I have, I take this mode of acknowledging to you the inestimable benefit I have received from the use of your Ready Relief.

With me it has worked wonders. For the last three years I have had frequent and severe attacks of sciatica, sometimes extending from the lumbar regions to my ankles, and, at times, in both lower limbs.

During the time I have been afflicted I have tried almost all the remedies recommended by wise men and fools, hoping to find relief, but all proved to be failures.

I have tried various kinds of baths, manipulations, outward applications of liniments too numerous to mention, and prescriptions of the most eminent physicians, all of which failed to give me relief.

Last September, at the urgent request of a friend, (who had been afflicted as myself,) I was induced to try your remedy. I was then suffering fearfully with one of my old turns. To my surprise and delight the first application gave me ease, after bathing and rubbing the parts affected, leaving the limb in a warm glow, created by the Relief. In a short time the pain passed entirely away, although I have slight periodical attacks approaching a change of weather. I know now how to cure myself, and feel quite master of the situation. RADWAY'S READY RELIEF is my friend. I never travel without a bottle in my valise.

If this testimonial can be of service in calling the attention of others to the virtues of your article, I hope you will give it the widest circulation.

Yours, truly, GEORGE STARR.
